Don't Overlook McGill's Sandlot Baseball Stories

The best reading on Atlanta sports pages these days is being written by Ralph McGill, Constitution sports writer, who is in Albany watching the sandlot teams play for the state championship and the right to enter the regional finals of the American Legion national tournament at Meridian, Miss.

McGill's vivid pictures of sixteen-year-old boys playing a man's game are compelling in interest. His understanding of the small boy's psychology and his command of good old-fashioned English make his stories too good to miss.

Unmasked Bandits Loot Two Stores; Commandeer Auto

Driver of Machine Is Forced at Point of Pistol
To Speed Two Robbers to Safety.

Two well-dressed white men, who made no attempt to disguise themselves, late Thursday turned bandits, offered threats to a number of Atlantans, and today are being sought by the entire detective force.

First the two marauders stole a coupe from an automobile company.

Second they robbed a grocery on Peachtree street, and then followed this up by robbing another store on Boulevard.

Third, when they found that their own car would not start, they commandeered a passing automobile to carry them to safety from the scene of the second holdup.

Two Stores Robbed.

The two men, who were described as being about 20 years old each, and each wearing a double-breasted blue serge suit, entered a grocery at 1308 Peachtree street at about 4:30 o'clock and looted the cash register. The management declined to give an estimate of the amount obtained. The second robbery occurred about 7 o'clock at 427 Boulevard, N. E. Here $100 was obtained.

The coupe in which they were traveling ran out of gasoline after the second holdup and was recovered by police. Upon tracing the machine, it was discovered that the car was stolen from the Cadillac Motor Company at about 4 o'clock, after it had been traded to the company by Dr. W. H. Joell, of Cornelia, earlier in the day.

The coupe out of commission, the two men ordered a passing motorist, J. W. Barwick, of 396 Angier avenue, at the point of their pistols, to drive them from the Boulevard to the corner of Peachtree and Cain streets, disregarding all speed laws and traffic signals. Arriving at about 8 p. m. (3 p. m. S. T.) the speed was excellent.

We will turn directly west at the Balcara islands at 8 p. m. (3 p. m. S. T.). The speed was excellent.

Dr. Hugo Eckener planned to turn the dirigible out over the Atlantic ocean at 2 a. m. (9 p. m. eastern standard time), heading from Gibraltar to Lakehurst, N. J., some 3,000 miles away.

A message from the Graf Zeppelin to the United News said that the dirigible was making excellent time and weather reports indicated that Dr. Eckener will find good flying conditions over the first half of the Atlantic route. He intends to decide upon reaching the Azores islands whether to continue direct to Lakehurst or to stop at the Azores.

ILLINOIS GASOLINE TAX WILL BRING STATE $52,000,000

Chicago, August 1.—(AP)—Illinois' recent gasoline tax law went into effect last night. This state was the last to adopt the tax. A former law was declared unconstitutional after being in effect several weeks. State officials anticipate $52,000,000 revenue from the tax within the next two and one-half years.

POISONED SELF

State Will Fight Plea,

wich Night of Murder.

Columbus, Ohio, August 1.—(AP)—A bitter fight on the question of whether Dr. James H. Snook or Thora Hix administered the stimulating concoction that was found in the girl's stomach after she was slain by Snook will be waged on the witness stand in his trial for first degree murder, opening statements of counsel revealed today.

Confronting the claim of the defense that Dr. Snook's mind was unbalanced by a narcotic given him secretly by Miss Hix to stimulate his emotions, Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., in his outline to the jury declared that the actions imputed to the girl rightfully belong to Dr. Snook.

At Sandwich.

About one hour before Miss Hix drove with the former professor to the New York Central rifle range the night of June 13, when she was killed, she ate a beef sandwich in which the preparation was placed, the prosecution told the jury. This was determined, he said, by City Chemist C. F. Long's examination of the contents of the girl's stomach.

"The state's evidence will show," he declared, "that on the night of June 13 Thora Hix refused to go with Dr. Snook to the apartment house where they had been maintaining a room together, but accompanied him on the automobile ride to the rifle range."

Had Not Been Well.

Robertson, shipping clerk for the J. W. Bell Company, a grain and flour miller, had not been well for some time but otherwise appeared to be normal, J. W. King, traffic manager for the Bell firm, said this afternoon. Mr. King was at lunch when Robertson became insane. He said that the clerk had appeared to be "worrying possibly a little" at times, but otherwise he had noted nothing unusual.

Opening Statement.

Attorney E. O. Ricketts made the opening statement in behalf of Dr. Snook.

"We are here before you on two propositions and on two propositions alone," he said. "One is self-defense and the other is an impaired mentality. The girl was insane. Dr. Snook was insane and this man Myers was insane."

Communists Arrested in Many Cities—Tear

To Halt Riot.

London, August 1.—(United News).—Communists of Europe and Russia joined today in a wide demonstration against war but far-reaching police precautions in virtually every capital dampened the enthusiasm of workers who had been urged to take part in the "protest." Many arrests were made throughout the world.

Gathering under the slogan of "War Against War," communists over the entire soviet union took part in the demonstrations, which also marked the fifteenth anniversary of Russia's entry into the World War. Hundreds of thousands of persons filled the streets of Moscow in long parades led by brass bands and numberless banners and floats.

The outstanding theme of the demonstration was that capitalist nations are preparing for war against the soviet union and that proletarians throughout the world must defend the soviet in view of the "inevitable world revolution."

France, whose communists have made the most extensive preparations, enjoyed a comparatively undisturbed day. About 900 communists were arrested in the Paris area, where some 20,000 troops were on guard at all public buildings, and in the factory suburbs. Airplanes flew over the city watching for demonstrations.

Five communists were arrested in Berlin, where the day was quiet in contrast to the bloody communist fighting on May Day. There were only minor disturbances in the German capital as the communists held mass meetings to protest against "imperialism." The general trend of the speeches was that "the moment for armed upheaval has not yet come."

Growth Is Necessary.

"Atlanta will die of stagnation if it is not permitted to expand along reasonable and equitable lines," Mr. Bowden declared. "The proposed annexation plan is fair. It gives both Atlantans and those in the territory to be included an equal voice in the matter as to fate of the merger. Virtually all of those living in suburban or contiguous territory have profited because of the proximity of their respective communities to Atlanta and a majority of them make their living in the city. They should bear their equitable portion of the tax burden and as good citizens should be willing to assume their proportionate share of the cost of maintaining the municipality."

Unqualified Indorsement
of Proposal Is Voted at Fifth Ward Civic League Meeting.

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK

Unqualified indorsement of the plan to extend Atlanta's city limits to include about 30 additional square miles was given Thursday night by the Fifth Ward Civic League, one of the oldest and most influential civic organizations in Atlanta, and the home ward of Alderman J. Allen Couch, author of the measure which will be offered to the Georgia legislature within the next few days by Luther Still, Fulton county representative.

Warning those present that failure of the city to show a normal growth would result to the injury of Atlanta, its business and progress, James E. Bowden, newly elected president and former member of city council from the fifth ward, took the floor in active support of the pending measure.

Growth Is Necessary.

Senate Spends Busy Session, Disposing of 9 General Bills, Passing 11 House Measures

Four Pieces of Proposed Legislation Ordered Tabled and Withdrawn From Consideration.

BY ROBERT H. WILSON.

Working for the third day under a calendar arranged by the rules committee, the state senate spent a busy session Thursday disposing of nine general bills and passing a total of 11 (new) measures of the house of representatives.

Debate on the senate bills was destructive for the most part with the result that four pieces of the proposed legislation were ordered tabled and withdrawn indefinitely from consideration. Action on the proposed constitutional amendment to double the state poll tax, continued from Wednesday, was postponed until after the week-end recess.

The Lafayette extension road bill, authorizing the state highway board to comply with federal provisions for paving the road to Chocomauga National park, was the first general measure to be approved. The bill originated in the house, where it was introduced by Representative Rosser and others. An appropriation of not more than $193,500 for paving the project was authorized.

Lengthy discussion over a bill by Senator Lane, of the thirteenth district, designed to prohibit the sale and distribution of veterinary medicines containing live virus except to licensed veterinarians, resulted in its being tabled after an effort to have it reconsidered by the agriculture committee had failed. The measure was supported by its author and by Senators Ford and Williams on grounds that vaccines containing living organisms are dangerous when used by any but expert veterinarians.

Opposition to the bill was presented by Senators Goode and Pittner, who argued that provisions of the measure would inflict an inconvenience upon farmers in thinly-populated counties. A bill by Senator Rawls, of the eighth, admitting papers and records made in the ordinary course of business as evidence in court cases, was left tabled after once having been withdrawn for discussion. The bill would eliminate the necessity of producing the author of such business records, if they could be proved to have been made as a part of customary procedure.

Insurance Measure. Copies of insurance policies need not accompany filing of suits against such companies for recovery of compensation, a measure of Senator Myrick's, passed by the upper house, would provide. By this provision, the senator from the first explained that unscrupulous corporations which make a practice of collecting policies and then refusing payment to beneficiaries would be brought within jurisdiction of the state's courts.

Bills by Senator Lankford providing penalties for violators of the state motor vehicle laws regarding license fees and by Senator Lawson authorizing municipalities to issue small denomination bonds for street paving, were passed with little discussion on the floor. Another measure by Lawson excluding releases of property made by owners on execution for taxes from jurisdiction of the code sections relating to property releases was also passed.

The "dentistry bill," offered by Senator Vaughn and a long list of other legislators, was tabled by the senate after discussion. The measure would establish a board of examiners of dental hygienists and would require licenses for all practitioners of dentistry.

Bank Information Wanted. Measures introduced for the first time in the senate Thursday included a resolution by Senator Alston, of the twelfth, calling upon the state banking department to submit a list of Georgia banks liquidated since July 1 of last year and for a statement of all liquidation expenses. Senator Goode offered a resolution to declare October 12, of this year, a legal holiday in honor of Abraham Baldwin, founder of the University of Georgia. It is the date that the Yale university football team will meet the Georgia eleven at Athens.

Shortly before adjourning the senate held a short recess during which the committee on constitutional amendments met to consider important bills pending before it. Two bills changing the date of biennial sessions of the legislature were reported out favorably by the body.

Senator Neill's bill would assemble the legislature on the first Wednesday in January for a ten-day session to inaugurate the governor and other constitutional officers and for purposes of organization. He would then have a regular legislative session of the assembly convene for 60 days on the first Wednesday following the Fourth of July.

Tyson's Proposal. A plan by Senator William Tyson, of the second district, would convene the assembly as at present on the fourth Wednesday in June for a 20-day session during which all proposed legislation would be introduced. The legislature would convene again in August for an unlimited session to dispose of all the legislation before it. Both bills were passed by the committee so that the entire house can approve the one it thinks best.

A third constitutional amendment by Senator Lankford proposing that all citizens be allowed to vote upon payment of poll taxes was also ordered to be favorably reported by the committee.

A resolution accepting an invitation of the Georgia Association to a luncheon Friday was adopted by the legislators and an adjournment time of 12:45 was set for today's session. It will convene as usual at 9 a. m.

Bills Passed.

The following bills were passed in the senate Thursday:

By Freeman of Early-To reimburse the tax collector of Early county for bond premiums paid by him.

By Geer of Miller-To amend the act creating the city court of Miller county.

By the Covatta Delegation-To provide for the relief of A. E. Billo as surety on bond.

By the Clarke Delegation-To provide for the relief of J. F. Herling as surety on bond.

By Geer of Miller-To repeal an act creating the city court of Miller county.

By Barrett of Stephens-To amend an act providing for the election of commissioners of roads and revenues for Stephens county.

By Burck of Dodge-To amend an act creating the office of commissioner of roads and revenues for Dodge county.

By Kennedy of Lamar-To amend an act authorizing ordinaries to appoint guardians for idiots and insane persons.

CARAWAY, BURNED BY SUN, CALLS TWO FLIERS "NINNIES"

Little Rock, Ark., August 1.—(AP)—Senator T. H. Caraway, of Arkansas, is content to let the endurance record of the St. Louis Robin fliers, whom he described as a "pair of ninnies," stand for a while.

The senator, his nose burned to a tomato tint, and other parts of his face scorched by the sun's rays, arrived here today from Washington in the open cockpit of an army plane.

It was just after landing that Senator Caraway tenderly caressed his nose, and was moved to characterize Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien as "a pair of ninnies."

"Most of the time we were flying," the senator said, "I was turning and twisting in my narrow seat like a piece of toast on a spit. I tried to save some of my skin whole, but it was no use."

When Lieutenant L. H. Clarke, his pilot, got lost, Senator Caraway took pencil and paper, mapped the course for him and directed the pilot to Little Rock. They were lost for a time trying to avoid rain clouds, and when they finally emerged it was over the Arkansas river and familiar country to the senator.

HOOVER WORKING ALL DAY DESPITE TERRIFIC HEAT

Washington, August 1.—(AP)—President Hoover seems to be withstanding the capital's most prolonged heat wave of the summer much better than most residents of the national capital.

He told camera reporters that the heat was not bothering him. He is at his desk at the usual early morning hour and remains until late in the day.

The only concession the chief executive has made is that he goes to his camp in the Virginia Blue Ridge mountains on Fridays instead of Saturdays for his week-end stay, but this is due mostly to the fact that he can spare more time from his work now that congress is in recess.

Mr. Hoover will go to the Rapidan camp tomorrow afternoon and will be accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, their son, Allan, who has had a slight stomach ailment, Postmaster-General and Mrs. Brown, Attorney-General Mitchell and Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, and Mrs. Hines.

FOREST FIRES RAGING IN TWO U. S. SECTIONS

Wisconsin Town Menaced, 3 Western States Have Big Blazes.

Crandon, Wis., August 1.—(AP)—A crackling, hungry flame nearly 20 miles long covered the northwestern corner of Oconto county today and, fanned by a stiff wind, was licking deeper into Forest county and the northern Wisconsin lake country.

Actually there were five separate fires strung out in a waveling line, roughly paralleling the Northwestern railroad right-of-way. However, with not a single rain cloud speckling the blotted night sky, and the wind that yesterday was in the southeast early today veering to the north, the gaps between the fires were growing smaller.

With more than a thousand state conservation officers and volunteers fighting the flames with ax and shovel to check their onward onrush of the most valuable timber still standing in Wisconsin, the residents of half a dozen lumbering towns were ready to flee. Great billows of smoke were rolling through village streets so thick at times that it is difficult to breathe.

The fire this morning was closest to Crandon, little more than a mile to the south. Only the driest kind of country lies between the village and the conflagration, but unless a wind veers again the town is safe.

Carter, which yesterday was almost completely cut off by the flames, was breathing a bit easier early today. So were Townsend and Lakewood and a half dozen lumber camps in the path of the fire. Wabeno, still farther to the north, although choked with smoke, is not in the danger zone as yet. The newest of the fires, however, is dangerously close to Butte Rock, in the Peshtigo swamp region.

FIRES ARE RAGING IN 3 WESTERN STATES.

Spokane, Wash., August 1.—(AP)—One thousand men were fighting forest fires today in Idaho, Montana and Washington under conditions that were made acute by the lack of rains.

Probably the most dangerous fire in the region was on Schwartz creek, in the Missoula national forest, which roared out of control before heavy winds after fighters had subdued it and part of their force had been shifted to new battle lines. Several thousand acres had been burned over. Fires were burning also in the Lolo, Butte and Black Feet forests in that state.

In north Idaho several blazes, most of them confined to sections a few hundred acres in area, were burning in the Nez Perce and Selway forests. In this fire which has burned over 1,400 acres, jumped from control lines yesterday, but the Salmon forest blaze, which had devastated 8,000 acres in 10 days, was believed to have been subdued. Observers in the Boise forest reported that a conflagration that had run for 10 days had been controlled.

In Washington the fires were smaller. An obstinate blaze near Marcus, which had been controlled twice, broke loose and after burning several hundred acres of grain and menacing much farm land, was brought under control again last night. Another blaze on the Naches river, 35 miles from Yakima, also was subdued.

SILKEN PAJAMAS WORN BY SARASOTA GOLF FOURSOME

Sarasota, Fla., August 1.—(AP)—Pajamas, that flimsy, varicolored uniform of exponents of sartorial comfort, has gone a step farther than its threat against trousers, pants or what have you, and has given notice to knickers.

First suggestion of menace to the common garb of the golf links—which itself had gained some reputation for comfort in bygone days—was evinced yesterday when Mayor E. J. Bacon and three other prominent Sarasotans appeared on the Bobby Jones municipal course with silken nightwear fluttering in the breeze while a large gallery cheered their efforts.

No official notice was taken of the attire of the mayor and the other members of the foursome, Dr. J. R. Scully, Dr. A. G. Morton and Dr. J. E. Harris. When interviewed their only response was "We believe in comfort."

CASHIER MISSING, FRIENDS FEARFUL OF FOUL PLAY.

Lake City, Fla., August 1.—(AP)—Friend here of Elliot Reing, cashier of the Seaboard Air Line freight office at Tallahassee, reported him as missing today.

Reiding was said to have passed through here Tuesday night en route to Tallahassee to report for duty Wednesday morning. National guardsmen, maintaining the fruit fly patrol at the Ocklawaha river bridge, said Reiding passed there and told them he was going to River Junction. Other friends said the cashier stopped at Madison and said he was hurrying to Tallahassee.

Reiding formerly lived here. He entered the University of Florida after finishing high school here. On leaving college he began work for the Seaboard Air Line here and was transferred to Tallahassee. Reiding is about 27.

Friends expressed concern that Reiding may have met with foul play.

MILK DROUGHT FACES ILLS. CITY AS ASSN. STRIKES

Freeport, Ill., August 1.—(AP)—This city faced a milk drought today as members of the Stephenson County Pure Milk Association went on strike to force the leading milk company to pay $2.65 per hundred pounds for their product.

The strike was called suddenly last night after 155 members of the milk association, composed of dairy farmers, met and decided to hold out for their demands. "The strike was aimed especially at the Union Milk Company, which supplies 12,000 of the 20,000 pounds of milk consumed here daily."

Officer Fatally Shoots Lumberman; Is Held in Jail

Wayne, W. Va., August 1.—(AP)—Norris Fields, a constable, was in the county jail here today in connection with the fatal shooting of Andrew Justice, a lumberman, of Louisa, Ky. The shooting occurred last night near Crum, W. Va.

Authorities said Fields told them he shot Justice in an exchange of shots in a roadside lunchroom after he had previously attempted to stop Justice's automobile for speeding.

BRITISH BANKER COMMITS SUICIDE IN INSANE FIT

Blankney, Norfolk, England, August 1.—(AP)—Sir Drummond Drummond Fraser, prominent British banker and writer on financial subjects, was found dead in bed with his throat cut last night. A razor was lying nearby.

The inquest today returned a verdict of suicide while of unsound mind. Testimony revealed the banker had had a nervous breakdown in 1915 after the loss of his sons in the war. He was further depressed by the death of his wife and had entirely lost the use of his legs.

He was 62 years old.

REFRIGERATION INSTALLED TO KEEP SENATORS "COOL"

Washington, August 1.—(AP)—Debate may grow quite heated after the senate reconvenes August 19 for consideration on the tariff bill, but physically the senators have every chance to keep cool.

Installation of refrigeration equivalent to the melting of 350,000 pounds of ice daily has been completed, and with the senate floor and galleries fully occupied this is equivalent to 3,500 pounds of ice for each person. In sessions from which the press and public are excluded this will give 3,500 pounds per senator.

The refrigeration system is similar to but smaller than that installed in the house during the last session.

A checked showed that the system was removing 300 quarts of water an hour from the air sent into the house and had taken out 1,100 cubic inches of dust and dirt in a few weeks. The senate system, with its 175 tons of mechanical refrigeration, will send through the chamber 60,000 cubic feet of air a minute.

MUSSOLINI SAYS ITALY HAS HOPES UNDER YOUNG PLAN

Rome, August 1.—(AP)—Italy accepts the Young plan for reparations in the hope of advancing the economic and political reconstruction of Europe. Benito Mussolini, fascist leader, declared today following a meeting of his advisers in the Chigi palace to examine the plan.

The group of government leaders scrutinized the new reparations scheme in detail.

NOT SO COOL, YOUTH FINDS PAJAMAS WHEN ARRESTED

New York, August 1.—(AP)—When a pajama-clad pedestrian attracts too much attention, it's time to call a halt, is the opinion of Patrolman John Meehan.

Meehan, on a corner near Madison Square, saw a crowd heave into sight. Investigating, he found the center of attraction was Samuel Goldenberg, 22, a newsboy, clad only in a new set of yellow and white striped slumber garments.

Goldenberg was taken to Jefferson Market court. There Magistrate Gotlieb agreed with Officer Meehan, and found Goldenberg guilty of disorderly conduct. He suspended the sentence when Goldenberg promised never to wear pajamas in public again.

And the charged Goldenberg, merely said, "Well, they weren't so cool, anyway."

Conspiracy Against China By Soviet Caused Expulsion Of Rail Officials, Wu Says

Chinese Minister to U. S. Discusses Dispute Over Eastern Railway at Institute Session.

Williamstown, Mass., August 1.—(AP)—China's recent expulsion of Soviet officials of the Chinese Eastern railway was the result of the discovery of a "grave conspiracy" against China, and was neither a violation of the railway nor a violation of agreements with the Soviet government, Dr. C. C. Wu, Chinese minister to the United States, said today.

Speaking at the opening session of the Institute of Politics at Williams College, Dr. Wu discussed at length the Sino-Russian dispute over the Chinese Eastern railway, which he characterized as "an instrument of Russian expansion and domination in Manchuria," and outlined the conspiracy which he said occasioned China's action.

Chinese officials, he said, had made a forcible entry on a meeting of the third international, attended by Russian consuls general, communist agitators, officials of the Soviet consulate at Harbin, and had discovered partly burned documents.

"A translation of the documents disclosed a grave conspiracy against China," said Dr. Wu. "There was not only the usual type of communist agitation and propaganda, but there was evidence to show that the conspirators were trying to instigate civil war in China and to cause injury to the Chinese Eastern railway.

Acted in Self Defense.

"What China did under the circumstances was dictated by the most elementary law of self defense, and she did no more than that. After due deliberation more than six weeks later she ordered the expulsion or arrest of the officials of the Soviet consulates, trading agencies and of the Chinese Eastern railway and the closing of the Soviet organizations.

"China has been represented as suddenly and in violation of the agreement of 1923, seizing the Chinese Eastern railway on July 10. This was not true.

"In any just estimate of China's action, one must regard as inaccurate the statement that China has seized the Chinese Eastern railway. China has not nullified any of the rights that Russia possesses there. She has in the exercise of the right of self-defense ejected foreigners who on her own soil were planning to do her harm.

"Some people have the impression that China wants to regain control of the railway, wherein she is morally right, but that in doing what she has done she is legally wrong. It would be hypocritical to say that China does not want the railway back. We have mined no words in proclaiming our intention of abolishing all unequal treaties. But we have also repeatedly stated that in so doing we employ legitimate means. The Chinese Eastern railway will be ours by reversion and can be ours by redemption in only a few years' time.

Points Out Agreement.

The speaker pointed out that the agreement of 1923 which granted the right of railroad construction to Russia stipulated that eight years after the completion of the line it should revert without payment to China, but in thirty-six years' time China would exercise the right of redemption.

Dr. Wu closed his address with an emphasis on China's adherence to the Kellogg pact.

"While not renouncing her right of self-defense, which indeed is recognized by the Kellogg pact, China, the world may rest assured, will employ none but pacific means to settle this and any other international controversy," he said.

Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams College and chairman of the Institute of Politics, making the address of welcome at the opening session, outlined the limitation of armaments and the tariff as the outstanding problems of the institute.

May Be Sincere.

"It may be that the chairman of the senate naval committee and the commander of the American legion are sincere in their advocacy of a navy powerful enough to force peace upon an unwilling world," Dr. Garfield said. "I do not impugn their motives, but I question the intelligence of any one who thinks that men can be made peaceable by force."

Speaking of the tariff, Dr. Garfield said: "To keep out or retard the flow of goods to the United States is to destroy our export trade. Nor should we forget that the foreign loans of the present time amount to twenty-six billions of dollars, and that we are adding each year to this one billion dollars. All of this must somehow be paid.

"If congress will base its action upon the needs of America today rather than those of ten years ago, the law will receive the support of the people of the United States."

The Institute of Politics, supported by the Rockefeller Foundation, the Carnegie Corporation, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the General Education Board, will remain in session until August 23.

MARRIAGE LICENSE
ISSUED TO NEGRO
PASTOR, AGED 94

New Haven, Conn., August 1.—(AP)—A license to marry has been obtained by the Rev. William Henry Singleton, 94-year-old negro preacher. Singleton is credited with being the only negro in the United States to raise a regiment of his own race in the Civil War. He will marry Mary K. Powers, 55.

Singleton, who has been preaching to his people here for many years, was born a slave at Newburne, S. C. When the Civil War began he organized the 35th United States infantry, and became its sergeant major. He is one of 46 surviving members of Admiral Foote Post, G. A. R. He will be a delegate to the national encampment at Portland, Maine.

DEPUTY FATALLY
WOUNDED IN RAID ON "SHINE" STILL

Frederick, Md., August 1.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Clyde Hauver was fatally wounded in a volley of gunfire which met a group of deputies as they raided a still in the mountains west of Thurmont last night. An all-night search of the region had resulted in jailing six suspects and the hunt through the hills between here and the Pennsylvania border was continued today by deputies, with the aid of state and city police.

Hauver fell at the first volley fired on the approaching officers and died within an hour, after being brought to a hospital here. His fellow officers returned the fire and the men in the vicinity of the still fled after the first interchange. Members of the raiding party said a large still was found with 20 vats of 500-gallon capacity each.

One of the men held in jail, Lloyd Lewis, of Foxville, had a wound in the forehead and was expected to have told a physician to whom he went for treatment that he was shot during the raid.

POINCARÉ OPERATION
CALLED SUCCESSFUL

Paris, August 1.—(AP)—Raymond Poincaré underwent successfully today a preliminary operation for the treatment of a pelvic affection, which forced his retirement as premier last week.

The former premier's operation took only a brief time. He left the operating room within a half-hour of his entering it at 8 a. m. and shortly afterwards recovered consciousness. He said he felt no pain and his doctors said there was no fever and they were confident everything would go well.

Mme. Poincaré was not permitted in the operating room with him. She seemed greatly relieved when he regained consciousness, although through-out she had showed great fortitude and full confidence her husband would regain his health.

The premier's operation was for an affection of the prostate gland, of a nature common to old men. He will be 69 years old August 23.

Generally Fair Weather Seen For City Today

Generally fair weather will be in order for most of today while the threat of a later afternoon shower will still remain in the offing, according to the official forecast of C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist.

The mercury will soar a little higher than it did Thursday, he thinks, but not enough to cause any great amount of discomfort. The range today is expected to be from 70 to 88, as against 68 and 85 for Thursday.

Official bureau figures for the month just closed, and made public Thursday afternoon, reveal that July was slightly below normal in the matter of rainfall, 2.34 inches to be exact, while the mercury did its cowering within 3-10 of a degree of average figures. A rather unexciting month from a meteorological standpoint, was Mr. von Herrmann's comment.

The highest temperature of the month was 92, reached July 7, while the lowest figure recorded was 61 on July 21. Only four degrees were added to the accumulated daily excess since January 1, leaving the average daily excess for this month of 1929 at 1.3 degrees. At the same date last year there was an accumulated deficiency of 2.48 degrees, an average of 1.2 degrees a day below the normal figures.

Precipitation through July 31 totaled 44.96 inches, an excess of 14.45. January and June of this year, in addition to July, showed a slight deficiency in precipitation but this was overcome by the wettest March on record and heavy rainfalls in the other months.

TASSELS OF CORN
BURNED BY HEAT
IN EASTERN KANSAS

Kansas City, August 1.—(AP)—The middle west continued to swelter today after a day and a night that established a number of seasonal heat records.

Showers were reported this morning over isolated sections but did little to temper the heat or break a near drought. Omaha, Neb.; St. Joseph, Mo., and Lawrence, Kan., received slight precipitation.

One death from heat occurred yesterday in Kansas, the center of the hot belt. Ellsworth, Kan., reported a temperature of 107 degrees. The mercury has hovered around the 100-degree mark in Kansas for several days.

S. D. Flora, federal meteorologist, said corn tassels were beginning to burn in eastern Kansas.

SPENT FORTUNE
SEEKING HEALTH,

Was Just About Given Up
To Die When He Found
Sargon, He States; Feels Like Old Self Now.

"Sargon is certainly a Godsend to suffering men and women. My own case proves it beyond the shadow of a doubt. I had spent over $20,000 in a fruitless search for health. I had undergone three operations and was just about given up to die when I found Sargon. It has absolutely made a new man out of me and overcome suffering that made life miserable for me for 16 years.

"I suffered so badly from stomach trouble, bloating and dizzy spells that I could hardly eat a thing, yet I was terribly overweight. I became awfully weak and run down. I was badly bloated and full of poison, and had rheumatism in my right arm so badly I could hardly use it.

"It took only thirty days for Sargon to put my entire system in order, and for the first time in 16 years I am feeling like my real self again. Every suffering man and woman in this country ought to know about Sargon. I can't recommend it too highly."

A. D. LISONBEE,
619 Judge Building, Salt Lake City, Utah.

The sensational success of Sargon has become the talk of the drug trade. Carload after carload of the new medicine is being sold and the demand grows daily as word of its remarkable health-building powers continues to spread. Tens of thousands of people have taken this revolutionary medicine with the most astonishing and gratifying results, and well-known men and women from all walks of life have testified in the public press to its wonderful merit.

How Sargon succeeds where everything else has failed; how it is bringing health and happiness to thousands of sufferers; how it accomplishes astonishing results by scientific methods undreamed of a few short years ago is being explained to vast throngs daily by the Special Sargon Representative at Jacobs' Main Store, 6 and 8 Marietta St. Sargon may also be obtained at all Jacobs' drug stores throughout Atlanta. ## 53 Years in Prison, Lifer MURDERER GAPS IN WONDER ON TRIP Sees First Auto and Airplane Bridgewater, Mass., August 1.—(AP)—Fifty-three years ago a boy of 17 who had murdered children even younger than himself entered the Charlestown state prison to expiate his crimes by a life in solitary confinement.

Today Jesse H. Pomeroy, now a grizzled old man of 71, was taken from behind the grim walls that for more than a half century had been his home to the state farm here, a vast expanse of fertile land on which the several hundred inmates raise garden crops.

Pomeroy arrived here in an automobile, the first ride he had ever taken in a motor vehicle. During the trip his eyes were held wide by wonder and his tongue almost speechless as he realized with what speed a world, hidden from him by prison walls, had moved in 53 years.

After Surprised.

Massachusetts' historic "lifer" was surprised and disappointed by the virtual absence of horses from the highways. He saw but one from the time he left Boston until he arrived at the outskirts of Bridgewater. And at the state farm he faced one of his greatest surprises. There tractors have all but displaced horses in agricultural work and a lengthy explanation was necessary before he was able to understand the use of those machines.

Near Brockton, the two automobiles bearing Pomeroy and five other long term prisoners, like him suffering from ill-health, paused long enough at an airport for Pomeroy to witness for the first time the take-off of an airplane. He was so amazed that he was unable to question his guards.

Train Is Explained.

At another point a string of freight cars held his attention and an explanation was necessary before he could comprehend their use. The gates locked at a railroad crossing, which halted the machine in one town through which they passed, impressed Pomeroy as one of the greatest improvements he had seen. A string of high tension power lines on their skeleton poles completely baffled the aged prisoner.

Pomeroy appeared in good humor and his guards, to permit him better to view the countryside, had the automobile driven slowly. At Randolph a halt was called while a guard entered a drugstore and purchased Pomeroy an ice cream cone and a bottle of soda. He readily posed with these delicacies for cameramen.

Crowds of Curious.

Small crowds of curious delayed the party in nearly every town. The prisoners at the state farm, who had just finished their noon-day meal, were hardly less curious and looked about Pomeroy's machine.

Pomeroy's removal to the state farm was directed because of his physical condition. He was assigned to a room, exclusive to himself, at the farm infirmary.

Pomeroy was sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Horace Milan, his third victim, but because of his youth the sentence was commuted to solitary confinement for life. After 31 years of "solitary" he was permitted to take his place with other prisoners. Prisoners at the state farm are allowed a considerable degree of liberty.

ALLAN HOOVER IS RECOVERED FROM ILLNESS

Washington, August 1.—(AP)—Allan Hoover, son of the president, who suffered a slight stomach disorder several days ago, was reported today as having entirely recovered.

He was making plans to accompany the presidential party tomorrow on the regular week-end trip to the Rapidan river camp in the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia.

Million-Dollar Tobacco Market Is Registered Thursday; Record Neared

Seven Million Pounds of Weed Sold in Georgia in Day—High Average Is 24.67.

Macon, Ga., August 1.—(P)—Georgia tobacco growers today received $1,577,267.75 from their offerings on the 22 leaf markets of the state. It was one of the biggest days of the tobacco season.

Wherever good tobacco was offered high prices prevailed. The average price in all markets was 20.84 cents per pound.

Nashville broke all records of sales for the day with a total of 1,344,622 pounds sold, at the high average price of 22.08 cents per pound, which alone gave the growers a total of $331,709.45.

Douglas, Tifton, Valdosta, Blackshear and Baxley, in the order named, furnished the next high volume of sales for the day and the prices in each of these markets were 20 cents or better.

Baxley's best grade of tobacco brought 45 cents a pound. Blackshear sold a block at 91 cents.

In Nashville one lot of leaf weighing 1,048 pounds brought an average of 44.34, a most unusual average for that amount of tobacco. The highest price of the day at Nashville was $1 a pound.

In Thomasville there was more trashy leaf offered than on any day since the market opened, which is responsible for the lower average there.

In Tifton one warehouse sale was completed; another was unfinished and a third was not touched.

Record.

The record for the day is shown in the following table:

County	Pounds	Average

FEDERAL FARM BOARD OPPOSES 'PROMOTERS'

Washington, August 1.—(P)—The federal farm board has decided upon a determined stand against "professional promoters" who have been seeking to "organize" the farmers for benefits under the agricultural marketing act and believes it has fortified itself so that it will not be misled by their representations.

Like any important commission when it is first inaugurated, the farm board has been swamped with applications for jobs, but the most persistent of these have been individuals, some described as "well meaning evangelists" and others as "high pressure promoters," who believe they see opportunity for their talents in the newly enacted farm law.

To virtually all of the co-operative organizations promoters, the board "has shown the door" with the declaration that the policy of the commission is to build up existing co-operatives. Members of the board are convinced that, through education, close supervision and a friendly helping attitude, extant co-operatives will be able to demonstrate their value to the farmers and thus increase their membership.

The desire of professional promoters to "organize" farmers is held by the board to spring from the knowledge that a great deal of government money is available for loans to co-operatives. In another category are the apparently large number of well-meaning individuals who believe they can assist the board by "visiting" among the farmers and merely spreading a good will gospel of co-operation—at a fair per diem remuneration.

The professional promoters are the type of whom the board intends to be most wary. Representations made by them may be working among the farmers without its knowledge. Consequently one of its first moves has been to warn farmers, through responsible sources, that if they desire to gain the most benefit from co-operative endeavor, they should join a recognized organization.

The business of protecting the farmer most effectively is expected by board members to become easier after the scattered existing associations are more closely amalgamated. This is expected to develop after the centralized co-operative marketing corporations have been established and a national chamber of co-operative economics has been founded.

CONTROL MUST BE CENTRALIZED.
Baton Rouge, La., August 1.—(P)—Centralization of control in the movement and sale of cotton must be made to fully meet the desires of the federal farm board, officials of the American Cotton Growers Exchange decided here today in their meeting with the American Institute of Co-operation.

Fifteen statewide co-operatives will be asked to join the plan. While the sessions were executive, C. O. Moser, Dallas, Texas, president of the exchange, stated that only slight changes are necessary in the present setup of the growers' exchange.

Mr. Moser said that the cotton growers of the south would be requested to comply immediately with the wishes of the farm board in order to participate in the $500,000,000 farm relief program to be administered by the board.

The cotton co-operatives already have named an advisory committee as provided for in the agricultural marketing act, and the personnel has been submitted to the federal board for confirmation.

A committee of three was appointed by the exchange trustees to take up matters of permanent relationship and specific problems in the approaching season's marketing operations.

This group is composed of Mr. Moser, C. G. Henry, president of the Arkansas Cotton Growers Co-operative Association, and U. R. Bialock, general manager of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Co-operative Association.

Tax Board Meets.
Sparta, Ga., August 1.—(Special.)—The city tax assessors board composed of J. Frank Smith, Thomas H. Little and E. B. Culver began its daily sessions yesterday and will make a thorough survey of all of the taxable property in the corporate limits. It is probable that the valuations on all of the property will be raised slightly, as more revenue is needed.

PAY ROLL BANDITS' CAR FOUND BY ROME POLICE

Statewide Search Ends in Center of City, Near Postoffice.

Rome, Ga., August 1.—(Special.)—The bandit car used in the daring daylight robbery of the Townsend Lumber Company $12,000 pay roll here last Saturday, was found abandoned in the heart of the city this morning.

After searching over the state and the south for it for nearly a week, local police found the car abandoned in a blind alley within a stone's throw of the United States postoffice.

In the car was a 20-gauge, sawed-off pump shotgun, a box of machine bolts and a pistol holster. The bolts were with the pay roll when taken and were being carried by the paymaster to the site where the company was doing construction work. The scoundrel belonged to E. P. Hicks, guard of the pay roll, and was taken when he was disarmed at the point of the shotgun.

The paymaster, Hugh Daniel, positively identified the car and the tag number was found to be almost exactly that of the number given by him to police Saturday. The numbers were correct but one figure was not in proper sequence. Police say that discovery of the car furnishes them with no clue whatsoever.

HIGH CRIME CHARGED MISS. ATTY. GENERAL

Impeachment Recommended by Legislators for State Attorney.

Jackson, Miss., August 1.—(P)—Attorney-General Rush H. Knox, of Mississippi, target of a house of representatives committee investigation, was under recommendation of the committee today for impeachment by the legislature on charges of high crime, misdemeanor and malfeasance in office brought in the committee's report alleging illegal collection of fees or commissions from the state.

Dozens of alleged fraudulently collected fees or commissions were charged in the report. The cases specified ranged from a few hundred dollars to one item of $38,481.77 which was listed in the report as "state income taxation of public corporations in 1926 for the year 1925."

The report was signed by Dan R. McGehee, of Memphis, chairman, and seven other members of the committee. The vote of the committee asking impeachment was one ballot short of a unanimous decision. Representative A. J. Coleman, of Vaiden, voting against and retreating a minority report in which he declared the dealings of the attorney-general were "free from any suggestion whatsoever of wrong doing."

Mr. Coleman laid partial blame for the alleged fraudulent collections to a former defective auditing system and asked that the complaints be turned over to the proper court for restitution.

August 6 was set as the date to act on the recommendations.

Former Wife of Hoot Gibson To Wed Plantation Owner

Los Angeles, Cal., August 1.—(P)—The Examiner today said Mrs. Helen Gibson, former wife of Hoot Gibson, cowboy film star, had admitted her engagement to Virgil Ashley Kelly, wealthy plantation owner of Honolulu.

Mrs. Gibson, who is known on the vaudeville stage as Helen Johnson, was granted a divorce on February 6, this year. The decree does not become final until next February.

School Head Named.

Waycross, Ga., August 1.—(Special.)—George D. Sears, Alamo, Ga., has been re-elected principal of the Fargo Consolidated school for the ensuing year, and plans are being made for the opening of the school in the fall.

You can work longer and better when you pause and refresh yourself

The big men in business are all hard workers—when they work. And they work plenty. But they get their power and drive from following the example of athletic sports in taking "time out" for rest . . . Just a brief minute here and there through the busiest day to relax—let go everything—forget the strain—relieve the tension—to pause and refresh themselves with ice-cold, tingling, delicious Coca-Cola. A little minute that's long enough for a big rest . . . You don't have to be thirsty to enjoy Coca-Cola. It's a good thought when you're tired. It's a better thought before you get tired. It gets you off to a fresh start that will carry you merrily on.

THE BEST SERVED DRINK IN THE WORLD
A pure drink of natural flavors served ice-cold, at cool and cheerful soda fountains, in its own thin, crystal-like glass. This glass insures the right proportions of Coca-Cola syrup and ice-cold carbonated water. The final touches are to add a little finely chipped ice and stir with a spoon until the sparkling bubbles bead at the brim.

ONLY TWO COMPETENT ONES.

J. O. Martin, state school supervisor, is in complete agreement with The Constitution's views upon the inadequacy of the present type of district "A. & M. schools." In effect he takes the position that only two of these schools are competent.

No argument has proceeded from The Constitution in favor of abandoning any school of the state that is doing work worth the money it is using. Instead of wanting less agricultural and vocational training done with the youth of the state we want more and better such training.

We believe the sensible, just and economic way to accomplish that is to convert those of the present A. & M. schools that are inefficient either into competent high schools and multiply like ones in all the agricultural counties of the state, or to put them to the uses as suggested by Mr. Martin in a communication published on this page.

Supervisor Martin suggests use of the present A. & M. school plants for further accommodation of feeble-minded, crippled, deaf and dumb and blind children—and we heartily approve that suggestion. He further says "there is not a school in the state which a white boy or girl may attend for the purpose of learning a trade," but if all the white boys and girls had a fully equipped high school in their county, with practical farm and trade courses connected, that condition would soon disappear. It is wholly for the benefit of such boys and girls that The Constitution is contending, because the existing A. & M. schools are not supplying their needs.

It is strongly pertinent in this connection to consider what is happening in other commonwealths.

In Virginia a strongly popular demand is being made for a $1,000,000 bond issue to equalize high school facilities in every county of the state. The demand insists that the youth of the rural counties shall be given equal opportunity with those of the cities to acquire high school training, including agricultural and vocational courses.

It appears that there will be very scant opposition to the proposed bond issue, because it is urged by the most active and influential citizens in all parts of the commonwealth. They earnestly assert that "if there is anything under the sun for which the good citizen should be ready to pledge his faith and fortune it is the adequate education of his children."

Educational history shows that the ultimate college for the majority of the nation's youth is the local high school, and now that there is an established collaboration of the federal government and funds with those of the states for agricultural and vocational training, the wisest policy is to put a high school with those adjunct courses, practically taught, in every county of the state.

Dr. Joseph S. Stewart, of our university, says truly that "the people want good high schools for their children." The general assembly knows that, but strangely fails to measure up to that popular need and demand. Why?

Those air birds at St. Louis have first names of Dale and Forrest and

THE RHODES GIFT DELAY.

There may be an adequate explanation of the delay on the bill to accept the gift of the Rhodes mansion to the state for the department of history and archives, but the average citizen wonders what that explanation may be?

The Rhodes estate offers this affluent gift of an edifice and grounds valued at $300,000 as a patriotic effort to insure the safety of the priceless historic records of one of the original states of the nation. Almost any other state's legislature would have promptly and gratefully accepted such a generous and free contribution to the assets of the commonwealth.

Today the invaluable historic documents of Georgia are lying around in the corridors of the state capitol like so much refuse to be carted away to the paper mill or the garbage dump. It is a scandal to the pride of Georgians that they are so neglected and hourly jeopardized.

If the general assembly means to accept the Rhodes gift, common decency and good manners dictate that it should do so at once and with appropriate thankful acknowledgments.

THE MEMORIAL DAY BILL.

Before reaching the last hurricane days of this session the house of representatives should take up, pass and send to the senate House Bill No. 251, making "Memorial Day," May 30, a legal holiday in this state.

The veteran organizations of the state, and their auxiliaries and patriotic society associates, have emphatically proposed that bill and are asking the general assembly to enact it as a measure of grace, honor and patriotism.

The day is now a legal holiday in 40 of the 48 states and all the possessions of the nation. It is not a memorial day alone for the dead of the Union armies in the War Between the States, but belongs more by millions to the veterans of the Spanish-American War, the Philippines insurrection, the Mexican border and Indian campaigns, and the dead of the great World War.

There is no question of sectionalism attached to the day's memorial character.

It is strange to visitors in Georgia from other regions of the nation to see "business as usual" going on while five-eighths of the Union is honoring the memories of the departed heroes of our wars for freedom and defense.

Virginia has enacted May 30 as "Confederate Memorial Day" and thereby combined it with the general national memorial day; and on that day each year the president of the United States comes over into Virginia, to Arlington cemetery, where dead of all armies, national and Confederate are entombed, and eulogizes the valor of those who wore the blue, the gray and the khaki alike.

It will be quite in keeping, therefore, to amend House Bill No. 251 to designate May 30 as Confederate Memorial Day, as in Virginia, or to give it a new and significant title as "Confederate-Union Memorial Day."

What is desired is to have one state memorial holiday which will satisfy the sentiments which cluster about the memory of our heroic martyrs of all our armies.

A number of girls are pictured in the press seeking angels to finance overseas flights. What these flappers need are angels to show them how to get their wings over their nighties.

Irving Cobb heads the association of artists and authors banded together to stimulate interest in stimulants. Cobb is credited with knowing a joke when he sees one and making the most out of it.

It cost Columbus only $7,000 to discover this continent, but he would have been discouraged if he could have anticipated the cost of running it.

Prison reformers in New York state should center their activities on the prisoners and not the prisons. Those boys need watching.

This country has not recovered from the shock of a premier of France resigning merely on account of illness.

"Mother, may I go out to fly?" "Yes, my darling daughter. But don't stay up more than a month, which is longer than you order."

A wise legislator is one who stands for what he thinks his people will fall for.

Hope that pact will prevent impact.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Oldest Newspapers.

Newspapers of ancient Rome in the shape of mural tablets have been discovered in the excavations which have been proceeding for some years at Ostia, the seaport of Rome. They contain an intimation of the death (49 B. C.) of Pompey, Julius Caesar's rival, the terms of the will of the great Julius with his bequests to the people of Rome, a list of the new consuls appointed, and announcement of the passing of an enactment remitting a year's rent to the poor. It was known that Julius Caesar was the father of journalism, that his special dispatches from the front in Gaul, and elsewhere, were scribbled in charcoal on a background of whitewash in the forum for the edification of the populace, to be republished afterwards for the gratification of schoolboys, but now the archaeologists have unearthed the daily news bulletins of the past, the record of home and foreign news, of elections and battles, posted in the city, and there reproduced in the provincial towns of Italy.

Spell of London.

"Our English friends must not be offended by the opposition of the French government to London as the seat of the forthcoming conference of governments. Foreign diplomats are hardly established in London before they are carried away by a spell. The Paris newspaper 'Figaro' in a leading article thus suggests that the French opposition to the British proposal is a compliment to the 'spell of London.' 'It is a tribute,' says the newspaper, 'to the power, the prestige and sort of fascination that their capital, its life, and the strength of its traditions, exercise. Foreign diplomats soon lose a little of their independent judgment and intellectual liberty. Ambassadors who retain in the midst of English life their freedom of judgment, their free will and critical faculties are very rare. We have known some, but they were few in number. M. Poincaré, taught by those examples, is right in distrusting himself and not going to the end of the line. He knows how one arrives in London, how one is received, but nobody knows how France's representative, if the conversations were to take an unpleasant turn for us, could leave those circles where fine customs and British politeness can quickly influence the most astute diplomatists.' The French government declares for the choice of a neutral city.

Eva Lavalliere.

Eva Lavalliere, the actress who died recently at Vittel, was a figure who represented a whole period of the boulevard. She was a gifted performer, brilliant and versatile. Kings and princes vied to kiss her hands, then came the war. There were all sorts of rumors. She had been shot as a spy. She had gone into a convent. The last rumor was almost true, for it was only her failing health which prevented her adopting the severe rule of the Carmelites. She retired absolutely from the world and devoted the rest of her life to prayer. She had found religion. She had been shot as a spy. She had gone into a convent. The last rumor was almost true, for it was only her failing health which prevented her adopting the severe rule of the Carmelites. She retired absolutely from the world and devoted the rest of her life to prayer. She had found religion. She had been shot as a spy. She had gone into a convent. ## House's 6-Cent Gasoline Tax Bill Attacked by Myrick

Declaring that the 6-cent gasoline tax passed by the house of representatives is "clearly unconstitutional," and that its final passage would "plunge the state into disastrous litigation requiring a special session of the legislature," Senator Shelby Myrick, of Savannah, issued a strong statement Thursday opposing the gas tax bill which is now pending in the upper house.

Senator Myrick's antagonism to the house measure is based upon the high probability that the state will be delayed in collecting its revenue, if not prohibited entirely from doing so, by court action taken by oil companies doing business here. He points to the case now pending brought by the Welford Oil Company to question the constitutionality of the present 4-cent tax.

A 6-cent tax, the senator believes, would arouse a large number of companies to contest the legislature's authority. Especially would this be the case if the allotment of the tax as passed by the house is maintained. Under the provisions of the bill, 4 cents would be given to the highway board for road construction, 1 cent would be allotted to the common schools equalization fund, and 1 cent to the counties.

Third Allocation Hit.
The Savannah senator declared that the third allocation—that to counties—is unconstitutional because it raises money by taxation for a purpose not authorized in sections of the constitution dealing with taxation. According to the constitution, state taxes may be levied for the following purposes only (it is to be noted that the word only is included in the constitution):

"For the support of the state government and the public institutions.
"For educational purposes in instructing children in the elementary branches of an English education only.
"To pay the interest on the public debt.
"To pay the principal of the public debt.
"To suppress insurrection, etc.
"To supply soldiers who lost limbs, etc.
"To make provision for the payment of pensions, etc."

Acts special session 1928: "To construct and maintain a state system of highways."

Subject to Court.
The allocation of tax monies to counties would not fall under any of these provisions, Senator Myrick stated, and the state would be immediately subject to court decrees prohibiting collection of the gasoline tax for that purpose. Numerous cases were pointed out in which court decisions indicated the unconstitutionality of the state government levying taxes to support smaller units of government within it.

Senator Myrick attacked the sections of the bill also which give one cent of the gas tax to the common schools equalization fund. He believed that the action of the special 1928 session of the assembly which created the equalization fund is unconstitutional and that therefore no tax funds can rightfully be allotted to it.

"Constitutional provisions and existing laws provide that school funds shall be distributed uniformly throughout the state," Mr. Myrick said. "Distribution on the equalization fund plan is not in accord with former plans for uniform distribution, and therefore is not legal."

Florida Case.
"The Florida case (in which the courts of that state recently declared sections of a six-cent gasoline tax bill to be unconstitutional) is illustrative of the fact that when a state imposes a six-cent tax on gasoline and distributes a part of that tax in an unconstitutional manner, the law is going to be attacked in the courts."

The senator said that Georgia companies with the exception of the Welford concern have been content to suffer the unconstitutionality of a four-cent tax because it was not prohibitive. He asserted, however, that under the increased tax, citizens would not submit to an unconstitutional law.

Further question as to the right of the assembly to include more than one kind of subject matter in the tax bill was questioned by Mr. Myrick. The gas tax bill is at the same time a tax measure and an appropriation bill, and as such would violate an express section of the state constitution.

ATLANTA BUILDERS GIVEN CONTRACT FOR $80,000 PLANT
Smith & Williams, Atlanta builders, were awarded a contract for construction of an $80,000 industrial plant at Maunum and Nelson streets for the Mueller Company, manufacturers of water pipe and brass plumbing fixtures, it was announced Thursday by McDonald & Company, engineers and architects for the project.

The structure is the first plant of the company in the southeast and is in line with a general expansion policy of the organization. M. W. Truitt, representing the Mueller interests, has been in Atlanta for the past several days and has approved the Smith & Williams bid. This elevators will be installed.

Actual work will begin at once and production can be started in about 90 days, it was said.

Story Published.
Dr. W. F. Melton, who inaugurated the teaching of journalism in Georgia, at old Emory college in Oxford, is the author of "Summer Madness," published in the September issue of Dream World. Dr. Melton, a former president of the Atlanta Writers Club, now is president of the Burns Club of Atlanta.

MRS. SHARP IS URGED TO RUN FOR CONGRESS

Prominent Atlanta Woman Formerly Was Head of State Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Norman Sharp, prominent Atlanta woman, who has been interested in many state and city activities for the past several years, is being urged by friends to consent to the use of her name in the congressional primary to be called for the nomination of a successor to the late Congressman L. S. Steele, of this district.

Mrs. Sharp came into statewide prominence as president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs. She was chairman of the women's club committee, which was largely instrumental in organization and building of the Atlanta curb market. In

MRS. NORMAN SHARP.

1925 she represented Georgia at the International Prison Commission in London, having been appointed by the governor. She is now state president of the Dixie Highway auxiliary, state president of the Greater Georgia Clubs, state chairman of the Home Products Committee of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, having been chosen to this position on account of her activity in the movement to increase the use of Georgia products.

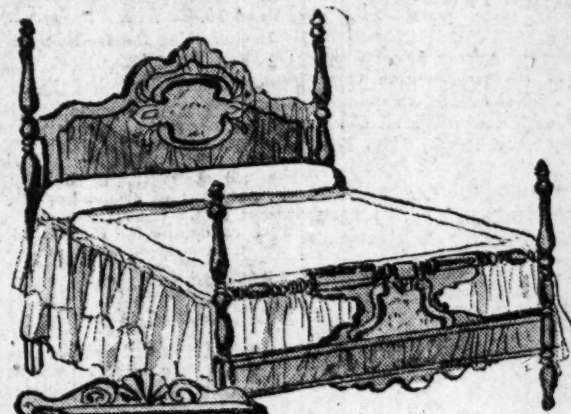

Mrs. Sharp is a member of the bureau of municipal research of Atlanta, having been appointed by Mayor Ragsdale.

She is one of the most outstanding women of the state. On being asked as to the response she would make to the suggestion for the use of her name for congress Mrs. Sharp said last night, "I do not know. The matter is of such importance as to require reflection. The only thing I can do now is to reflect."

ATWATER KENT RADIO

What every radio would like to do—this one does!

THE Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio Set made its bow as "the greatest advance in radio since the coming of house current sets two years ago."

Knowing that an Atwater Kent statement can be taken at face value, thousands bought the new radio within a week of its appearance. Thousands more—then tens of thousands. Today the Atwater Kent Screen-Grid is going into homes everywhere, as the number of Atwater Kents that have been made and sold in seven years sweeps toward the three million mark.

So a reputation spreads. So a proved radio, with all the subtle fineness of construction that make it do what every radio would like to do, sweeps on to new conquests.... How easily and quickly you can have one in your home! Why not call an Atwater Kent dealer this minute and say "home demonstration"?

Radio Factory Bigger Than 28 Football Fields

Already the largest radio factory in the world, the Atwater Kent plant has been doubled in size. It is now doubly the largest, because the public asked for more—and more—of the radio that keeps on working.

It covers thirty-two acres of floor space. That makes it bigger than twenty-eight football fields, than three Yankee Stadiums, than two Yale Bowls, than seventeen Madison Square Gardens, than fifteen Leviathans, than nine Capitols at Washington.

Thirty-two acres of radio! Half a mile from end to end. Walk around—walk more than a mile and a half. Go into it—rouse each Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Set being constructed and tested with as much care as if every detail were the biggest thing in the world.

Georgia Boy Third To Finish Gruelling Test for Edison Prize; Questions Are Varied

Monitors Watch as 49 Youths Struggle With Long Quiz To Determine Smartest.

West Orange, N. J., August 1.—(AP)—Under the watchful eyes of 20 monitors, 49 of the smartest boys in the country struggled today with pen and pencil to answer the examination questions submitted to them by Thomas A. Edison, the aging inventor, who seeks a fifth follower for his footstep. The winner is to be given a scholarship in the college of his choice.

Questions as difficult as those put to Edison himself during his annual birthday newspaper interviews, confronted the boys. From geography to history, from chemistry to astronomy, the quiz took them into the realm of morals and ethics.

Strict Schedule.
The inventor was as strict in laying out the day's schedule for the youthful visitors as he is in planning his own life. Breakfast was served at 6:45 and two of the boys overleapt but were at the laboratory at 8 o'clock when the mental tests began.

The examination was divided into four parts, the first of which probed general knowledge. In the scientific subjects which the boys were supposed to have covered in previous studies, the second part, launching into the general field, comprised some of the following questions:

"What do you consider four of the most important qualifications necessary to succeed in any pursuit?"
"If you were marooned alone on a tropical island in the South Pacific, without tools, how would you move a three-ton weight, such as a boulder 100 feet horizontally and 15 feet vertically?"

In Case of Failure.
"If you had been given a certain experiment to perform and had been informed that it could be done successfully, but you had failed 10 times, what would you do?"
"What new discovery or invention do you believe would be the greatest benefit to mankind? Why?"
"If you were to inherit $1,000,000 within the next year, what would you do with it?"

"What place in our daily lives do you think the automobile will have 100 years from now?"
"If some acquaintance of yours unfairly accused you of cheating, what would you do?"
Permissible Lie.
"When do you consider a lie permissible?"

"Which one of the following would you be willing to sacrifice for the sake of being successful—happiness, comfort, reputation, pride, honor, health, money, love?"

"If you were on the verge of an important discovery and found the one missing link in another worker's laboratory, what would you do? Why?"

"If you were a president of a company, what would you do to make it a success?"

"Give a brief statement what you hope will be a typical day for you when you are 50 years of age."

Only one question was asked in part three as follows:
"Assuming that you have just graduated from high school and are anxious to land a job—write a letter such as you would send to the chief engineer or to the president of the concern with which you would like to become connected."

John Lowry, representative of Minnesota, was the first to complete the test. He emerged from the examination room about 1 o'clock. After him in the order named came Lloyd Mitchell, Alabama; Albert Kunze, Oregon; and Kyle F. Sutton, Maryland. They all agreed physics and chemistry tests were the hardest.

TAX SYSTEM CHANGES SOUGHT BY REALTORS

Elimination of the ad valorem tax feature, separation of state and local taxing agencies and classification of property for levies at varying rates were advocated as the two most necessary changes in Georgia tax system Thursday by the Georgia Real Estate Association. A program of tax legislation favored by the realtors was made public in a letter to Atlanta newspapers.

According to J. Clay Murphy, chairman of the tax committee, revision of this state's tax program is an immediate and pressing need. "The wealth of the state is not sharing its proper part of the taxation burden," he said. "The people can neither progress nor succeed until the tax load is justly proportioned."

The report of Mr. Murphy's committee stated that real estate is paying 58 per cent of the state's taxes and as high as 80 per cent of all city and county taxes, while many forms of property are paying nothing at all.

The following program was unanimously approved as in accord with the demands of real estate owners for tax reform:
"1. That the constitution of the state be amended so as to eliminate the ad valorem tax feature."
"2. That the state create a commission for efficient centralized administration of state taxation."
"3. A classified system of taxation to apply different rates on the different classes of property."
"4. Elimination of the state property tax of 5 mills."
"5. A recording tax on mortgages which would relieve them from further taxation."
"6. A modified low rate retail sales tax, or some low rate income tax, either on net or gross income, should be worked out by the legislature, in order to reach all forms of property in this state. These taxes to apply only when the state has eliminated the general property tax of 5 mills."

CUSTOMS OFFICIAL EXPLAINS BARRING OF GERMAN BOOK

Washington, August 1.—(United News)—The English edition of the German book, "All Quiet on the Western Front," was barred from the United States only because it infringed the American copyright edition produced by a separate publishing house, Customs Commissioner Eble said today.

Allegations that certain passages in the unexpurgated English edition were obscene were not considered by the treasury department in connection with the case, Eble has advised Senator Cutting, republican, New Mexico, who recently criticized the department publicly for what was interpreted as unjustified literary censorship.

IDEAL COUPLE OF OPERA WILL BE DIVORCED

Action Filed Against Bohnen Alleges Cruelty; Pair Married Two Years.

Los Angeles, August 1.—(AP)—The romance of the Metropolitan Opera Company's "ideal couple" was climaxed today with the filing of a separate maintenance suit by Mary Lewis, against Michael Franz Bohnen, in which she accused her husband of cruelty.

Miss Lewis described her two years of married life as "one continuous discord." The couple, married in New York in April, 1927, separated last July 1. Miss Lewis, a former Arkansas choir singer, stated.

Their differences, it was revealed, began a few days after the wedding while they were on a liner bound for Europe. Miss Lewis accused her husband of striking her while a crowd of passengers was near by.

Other charges alleged the husband dragged her about a Paris hotel room after knocking her down and kicking her. In Berlin, she charged, he pushed her with such force against a door that the panel was smashed.

When the couple returned to New York, Miss Lewis alleged Bohnen attempted to make her leap from a hotel window and when she refused, she said, he tried to push her out.

The couple came here recently. Miss Lewis to rest and Bohnen to appear in a motion picture.

FOUR-YEAR WAIT FACES DEPOSITORS IN FLORIDA BANK

Winter Haven, Fla., August 1.—(AP)—Freezing of deposits up to four years has been ordered by the state banking department as necessary to the reopening of the Citizens Bank of Frostproof, according to information received here today from the Highland News.

The bank closed a few weeks ago during the bank flurry in Polk county which led to the closing of a half-dozen institutions in the county following collapse of the Citizens Bank & Trust Company in Tampa.

The dispatch from Frostproof said that according to the state banking department, the deposits would be paid on or before the expiration of the four-year period, certificates of deposit being issued. It was stated that while the institution's affairs are in excellent condition and the officers are prepared to reopen at any time, no definite date has been set.

The plan of reopening was said to have been furthered by J. Maxey, the president, and L. Maxey, vice president, prominent capitalists and fruit shippers.

The bank is capitalized at $25,000, with surplus of $25,000 and deposits of $778,000, according to the statement issued shortly before closing.

FORMER ATLANTA WOMAN TO WED NEW YORK BROKER

New York, August 1.—(Special).—A marriage license was issued today to Mrs. Fanabelle Woodruff, 25, of 123 West Ninety-third street, a former Atlanta resident, and Henry A. Menjou, 38, of the New York Army and Navy Club. The couple announced that they would be married by the city clerk today.

Mrs. Woodruff is a native of Atlanta, the daughter of Robert E. and Belle Paul Woodruff. Mrs. Woodruff and her first husband, George Abramson, were divorced in Los Angeles, Calif., on May 30, 1927. Mr. Menjou is a stock broker and a native of Philadelphia, the son of Albert and Nora Joyce Menjou.

Ware Agriculture Work Given Mention In Colored Report

Waycross, Ga., August 1.—(Special).—Ware county negro agricultural work, under the leadership of Alexander Hume, negro agricultural agent, is given considerable mention in the May report of the head of the negro extension work. Special mention is given the boys' clubs of the county.

Ware county was especially mentioned in the report on corn grown, it being reported that nine demonstrators were active in producing "top-notch" corn. Cotton also comes in for its share, a large amount of cotton having been planted by colored farmers.

200 ELECTRICAL INSPECTORS MEET HERE OCTOBER 15

More than 200 delegates, from nine southern states and many Latin-American countries, are expected to attend the first annual convention of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors at the Ansley hotel October 15 and 16.

In discussing the forthcoming meeting Pat Hendricks, local inspector, Thursday explained that the object of this first convention is to promote better understanding between the electrical inspectors and the public. To this end association members will co-operate in dissemination of information on the safe use of electricity, Mr. Hendricks said. Committees now are at work on details for the convention.

AMERICAN IS HELD FOR PALACE ROBBERY

Madrid, Spain, August 1.—(AP)—Packer J. Dee, Chicago banker, was said to have admitted to the district judge before whom he appeared today that he had taken a valuable porcelain plaque from the famous Escorial palace but that he did it only as a joke.

Dee, following regular Spanish custom, has been held "incommunicado" since his arrest. He had visited the museum with a tourist party and entered the plaque, which had hung on the wall of a room, was said to have been found in his possession.

The authorities have said that he apparently had been drinking. Because the robbery was committed in a royal city and the palace of the king, the judge must study the case carefully before making disposition of it.

It was learned that there was a possibility, if the reputation of Mr. Dee is established by testimony which his wife and attorney are attempting to obtain from Chicago, that King Alfonso may use his influence to stay the severity of the penalty.

Barriers pointed out that if the charge of robbery is proved, the penalty depends on the value of the object taken. The plaque in this case is one of the only complete existing set manufactured at the famous porcelain plant "El Pétro" in Madrid, which was destroyed more than a century ago by cannon fire during the Napoleonic war.

CHICAGO FRIENDS ALLEGE MISTAKE
Chicago, August 1.—(AP)—Packer J. Dee, held in Spain on a charge of attempting to take a valuable antique, is vice president of Lawrence Stern & Company here. He has been in the bond and brokerage business for many years. Business associates declared they are certain a mistake has been made.

He left Chicago some weeks ago with a party for a pleasure tour to Europe.

ETHERIDGE DEFENDS CONDITIONS IN TOWER

Fulton Board Also Says That County Would Like To Be Relieved of Caring for U. S. Prisoners.

A letter from Paul S. Etheridge, chairman of the Fulton county commission, answering criticism of Fulton Tower by Judge Samuel H. Sibley, United States district judge, and stating that the commission would be glad to be relieved of having to care for federal prisoners, Thursday was turned over to Louis H. Crawford, United States marshal, by Judge Sibley.

Judge Sibley would not comment on Mr. Etheridge's letter other than to state that he had turned it over to Marshal Crawford, who is in charge of all federal prisoners, nor would he announce his probable course of action.

Mr. Etheridge's letter was in response to a communication from Judge Sibley asking if the tower could not be improved, and threatening to place the federal prisoners elsewhere unless some improvement was made in what he termed "the worst kept jail in my division."

It was said at the tower Thursday afternoon that there are 67 federal prisoners in the jail, but that the daily average is around 45. The federal government pays the cost of keeping a day to house and feed the prisoners.

Mr. Etheridge, in his letter to Judge Sibley, said that the board of commissioners found no justification for the criticism, "and while your letter does not intimate that your information was received second-hand, the board is of the opinion that you have been misled and furnished information from unreliable sources."

The board would be glad to be relieved of caring for federal prisoners, "as we have rather the room nor the facilities," Mr. Etheridge said.

Fulton county courts will not resume their work until the middle of August, and there appears little likelihood of reducing the jail population except by a small number of pleas of guilty which might be entered while jury trials are suspended, it was said.

APOLOGY FOR ILLINOIS BIRTH WAS ERRONEOUS

Mississippi Senator Misquoted by Associated Press in DePriest Statement.

Jackson, Miss., August 1.—(AP)—In its report of the debate in the Mississippi state senate on passage of a resolution expressing disapproval of the entertainment at the White House of the wife of Oscar DePriest, negro representative from Illinois, the Associated Press erroneously represented Senator J. C. Zeller, of Yazoo City, Miss., as apologizing for being born in Illinois.

The senator said that he "in no way apologized for having been born in Illinois," but explained that he was born there while his father, a Louisianian, was in Illinois aiding in fighting an epidemic. He voted for the resolution with the explanation that "his northern antecedents had not precluded his having the opportunity of making an intelligent study of the race problem."

The senator said he held the state of Illinois and its citizens in high esteem. The Associated Press is glad to make this correction.

Lawrenceville, Ga., August 1.—(Special).—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Brand Banking Company Judge C. H. Brand, W. H. Powell, F. T. Pentecost, R. Smith and Sam Craig Sr., were elected directors for the next year. An 8 per cent dividend was declared. The bank showed a net profit of 22 1/2 per cent for the past year, and the deposits are the largest for this time of the year since the organization of the bank about 25 years ago, it was reported. Deposits are over $701,000.

After the adjournment of the stockholders' meeting the board of directors went into executive session, at which time Judge C. H. Brand was elected president; W. H. Powell, vice president; G. C. Montgomery, cashier; F. T. Pentecost, assistant cashier, and Misses Essie Poe and Thelma Johnson, bookkeepers and tellers. Colonel J. L. Oakes was re-elected attorney for the bank, and R. Smith, Sam Craig and W. H. Powell were elected loan committee, with Mr. Smith as chairman.

WOOLFORD IS HOST TO COMMITTEES ON CONSERVATION

Members of the house and senate committees on conservation were entertained at a dinner at the Atlanta Athletic Club Thursday night by Guy Woolford, head of the Georgia Forestry Association. In addition to the members of the legislature there were several prominent officials who recently made a tour of the Okefenokee swamp accompanying the conservation committees on that trip. Bonnell H. Stone, chairman of the house conservation committee, headed the delegation of legislators at the dinner.

FREE, WHITE and FEMALE

Clarence Budington Kelland

SYNOPSIS. Martha Bundy, just out of college, establishes herself in New York as a partner with Jerry Breen, an artist's model, as an agent for artists. Both girls are popular in the art world and the upper Bohemian set. Martha's secret about her town has been Mortimer Blade, who has introduced her to speak-easies of the more expensive sort. One Richard Lane, an artist who bears a striking resemblance to Blade, also takes her about. There is some mysterious connection between Blade and Lane that Martha has never fathomed. This evening Lane calls for her at the women's hotel where she lives.

"I'm sorry," Lane said gravely. "I was entertained," said Martha. "I think I identified the gentleman."

"A neighbor of your family," said Lane. She pressed together her lips. "What do you know about my family? I have no family, I am alone."

He smiled. "Not if tradition speaks the truth of the Bundys," he said. To this she made no reply, but asked presently, "That was Mr. Roswell Blade, was it not?"

"It was," said Lane. She took her courage in her hands. "And may I ask," she ventured, "who you are—why you and Mortimer Blade look enough alike to be twins?"

"My name," he said simply, "is Lane. I am a painter more admired by artists than by purchasers."

"And I am not proud of my resemblance to Mortimer," she said. She addressed herself to her food, but spoke presently with a little drawing together of her shoulders as if a sudden chill had blown upon her.

"Let us eat quickly," she said. "My mood has changed. I'm restless. I want music and heaps of action and excitement. I can't sit still tonight."

"Very good," he said amiably and paused to regard her with eyes whose meaning she could not fathom. "But let's not have our restlessness turn to recklessness."

"I don't mind saying," said Martha. "that I am considering that very thing."

June had turned over its interest in the world to July, which surrendered to August. Before September was done with its transactions the Bundy family had talked itself into, as Mr. Bundy said, going the whole hog.

A million dollars in profits was now the Bundy goal, and it was a logical, reasonable goal. But to reach it required the spending of money, much money. They could have closed out with a handsome profit a month ago, but this very fact set them the more determined to persist in their adventure.

A graduate had offered them $50,000 for their bargain and then had come up to $75,000. Their refusal was heretofore.

"If those birds," said Damon, "are willing to pay us so much money for our chance, it's worth hanging onto."

So it appeared to all, though Mr. Bundy, compelled by his self-assumed position as balance wheel to the family, registered his opposition.

"A bird in the hand," he said. "A sparrow in the hand," said Pythias, "isn't worth a turkey in the bush."

"Not if you have your eyes on him and are a good shot," said Damon. "His heart would break if we agreed with him," said Theron. "He's just doing his duty like a man."

"I guess we all know Pa," said Damon. "We admire him," said Gelon. "It's because he's so steady," said Pythias.

"But he's awful covetous of money," said Theron. "It's his one defect," said Damon. "You boys shut up," said Mr. Bundy. "How do you expect a body to think with this clatter? If we slap a mortgage on the Bundy land, somebody's got to pay it."

"He means us," said Gelon. "We've already hocked everything we've got to hock," said Mr. Bundy. "Somehow I despise the thoughts of that mortgage."

"Then let's not do it," said Theron solemnly. "I'm with you," said Gelon. "Never mortgage the old place."

"It would be a mistake," said Damon. "The trouble with you boys is lack of experience," said Mr. Bundy. "A mortgage ain't going to bite you. I'm going to the bank to see about it. Now."

"He hits while the iron's hot," said Pythias. "Just a nice little tame mortgage," advised Gelon.

"One the children can have in the parlor," said Theron. "I got my mind made up what it'll be," said Mr. Bundy. "It'll be short term, that's what. No long, lingering mortgage for me. Six months. We ought to be some place in six months."

"Then we can sign contracts," said Theron. "For sidewalks and sewers and water," said Pythias. "But we really don't need them," said Damon. "Pa's so headstrong."

"Your Pa," said Mr. Bundy, "knew his vegetables when you were all wearing dildies."

The boys stared at each other aghast. "He's going in for modern slang," said Gelon.

"I know what of," said Damon. "He's been tying his ties straight ever since he met that buddy of Martha's. Brothers, our father has felt for a flapper."

"She was a likely girl," said Mr. Bundy composedly, "and she talked sense. You boys went at things all wrong. You got Martha's lark up, and now she's disinherited the lot of us. What did you have to go smashing up the head of hers for? This Jerry guy says it just made Martha more obstinate."

"There's two men she runs around with a lot," said Theron. "This Blade fellow and an artist by the name of Lane," said Pythias, "and he looks enough like Mortimer to be his twin—only kind or different."

"I'd hate to look like Blade," said Theron. "He probably does," said Gelon. "It's funny we can't find out anything about him, French name."

"What," asked Damon, "if she should up and marry this Blade?" "When he married," said Pythias, "it'll be a lot of money."

"The Lord help him," said Mr. Bundy. "If he comes any funny business over Martha, this Mortimer's got a way with the wimmin," said Theron.

"A man is so doggone helpless where his womenfolks are concerned," complained Mr. Bundy. "Come along and stop deafening a body."

The transaction was completed without great difficulty, and a considerable cash credit was placed to the family name in the bank. Forthwith they set about the matter of obtaining bids and making contracts. It was a busy time, they obligated themselves in largish sums and set about the difficult task of speeding the work.

Which activity Roswell Blade and his son noted and discussed with an eye both to profit and the luxury of satisfying an ancient enmity and a very modern desire on the part of young Mortimer, to keep his given word that he would do damage to the Bundy family if it required a lifetime of effort. He was excessively bitter. His thrashing in Miss Patty's speak-easy raveled and would rankle until he found a poultice for the wound.

This was once, he told his father, "that you and I have got to pull together."

"I've been thinking things over," said Mr. Bundy. "I'll keep an eye on developments. It looks to me as if neighbor Bundy was getting out of his depth."

"But they may pull the thing off," said Mortimer. "More than a chance—if they're allowed. Somehow it would irk me tremendously if they made a million out of it."

"Then," said Mortimer, "suppose we busy ourselves?" "I," said Mr. Bundy, "have already done so. Yesterday I bought James Bailey's stock in the bank. He is a director. I shall be elected to his place."

"I don't follow you."

"The time is the most precious ingredient in the Bundy plans," said Mr. Bundy. "They must have the improvement work done and the property on the market at the nearest possible date. . . . Before the mortgage falls due."

"They've mortgaged the place? I didn't believe they would do that."

"Nor I, but you never can tell about a Bundy. . . . Personally I should take some delight in cutting up that estate into cheap building lots. It would lacerate the Bundy sensibilities."

"It would," said Mortimer. "So," said Mr. Bundy, "while I tinker with high finance, you will see that work does not speed. Our socialist or anarchist friends have invented a weapon called sabotage. Why not? You, my son, will perpetrate a quantity of high-class sabotage."

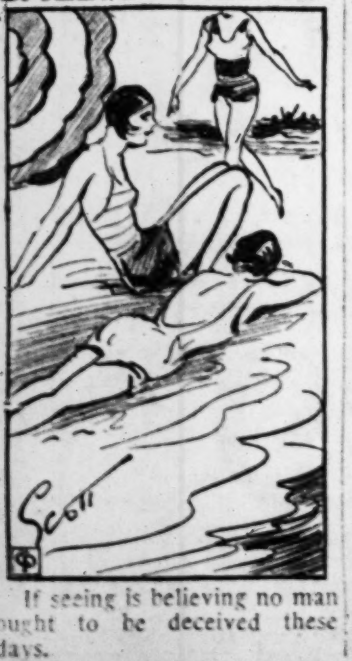

"As how?" "I note an elaborate trenching machine, an efficient modern method of digging ditches in which to lay pipes and the like. One with some knowledge of mechanics could keep that machine in a state of paralysis. That is a sample. There will be concrete mixers and the like—and men to operate them. . . . Then there is the delicate business of spreading rumor. Oh, don't worry that you will lack pleasant employment. And remember that every day of delay will cost them an ample sum. Enough days of delay will spell ruin."

Senator Borah Urges England To Sink Warships To Obtain Naval Parity With America

U. S. Could Not Build To Britain's Strength Without Heavy Cost To Taxpayers.

Washington, August 1.—(AP)—Attainment of equality in naval strength between the United States and Great Britain through the sinking of some British ships was advocated today by Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee.

The Idaho senator's statement was issued 24 hours after he had discussed the general naval situation with President Hoover at a White House luncheon. Whether the chief executive knew in advance that Borah was to make a public pronouncement was a subject of speculation tonight.

Sink Some Ships.
"If Great Britain will follow our example at the Washington conference," said the Idaho senator, "and sink some of her ships, and thus come to parity, it will not only save the taxpayer but reduce the incentive to war—for huge armaments are always an incentive to war, parity or no parity. But if we build up to parity, it vastly increases the burdens of the taxpayer and augments the incentive to war."

The Borah statement served to recall the stands taken by Senator Hale and Representative Britten, chairman of the senate and house naval committees, after President Hoover's recent suspension of construction on three cruisers. The American move followed a similar one by Prime Minister MacDonald in London, in announcing that the principle of naval parity had been agreed upon by the two nations.

Senator Hale said:
"To reach equality when the 15 new cruisers authorized by the cruiser bill shall have been completed, Great Britain will have to scrap many of her ships already built or in the process of building."

Britten Talks.
Representative Britten said:
"If Ramsay MacDonald really wants equality, let him tell the world that Great Britain from now on will stop building cruisers; and if President Hoover wants equality, let the surest way to get it is to keep on building cruisers."

In his statement, Borah said:

LIEUT. BLAZER HURT IN POLICE CAR WRECK

Officer's Car Forced From Road and Smashed by Fleeing Automobile.

City Police Lieutenant J. W. Blazer Thursday night was recovering from severe bruises and cuts received early Thursday morning when his car was forced from the road and wrecked by a fleeing automobile on the Mayson-Turner road, near Ashby street. The pursued car, which was believed to have been carrying a liquor cargo, sped on after the officer's car had overturned.

Lieutenant Blazer was sitting in his automobile on Mitchell street, near Davis street, talking with two other officers when a large yellow roadster swept by at an excessive rate of speed. The lieutenant shouted at the driver to halt and when this command was ignored he took up the chase.

With both cars hurtling across street intersections and around corners at a break-neck pace the chase continued for many blocks. The officers drew nearly abreast of the fleeing automobile on the Mayson-Turner road.

As he drew closer and was trying to stop the speeding car the driver of the roadster swung his wheel sharply to the left. To avoid being struck Lieutenant Blazer was compelled to swerve his car. As he did so a wheel dropped into a small washout at the edge of the pavement and his car was hurled from the road against a fire plug, and turned over.

The officer crawled from the wreckage and hailed a passing motorist who took him to Grady hospital, where he received treatment for serious bruises to his left side and hip and minor cuts. He was allowed to leave the hospital after treatment.

Mrs. J. G. Tye, 28, of a Jonesboro road address, suffered severe lacerations over the greater portion of her body Thursday afternoon when she was struck by a milk truck on the Jonesboro road, near South river. The name of the truck driver was not obtained by authorities but witnesses said that he stopped and offered every assistance.

Mrs. Tye was crossing the road with her seven-year-old daughter, Louise, at her side, when she was struck by the truck after it had ricocheted from another car. The child escaped injury. The woman was taken to Grady hospital and later was removed to her home.

ST. MARK'S CLASS TO BE HOST TODAY AT MELON CUTTING

The Men's Bible Class of St. Mark's Methodist church will be host to a watermelon cutting at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon on the church house lawn. Members of the Men's Class, their families and friends, and the Bible class of Mrs. Alonzo Richardson have been invited to attend. A program containing a number of features, including an orchestra presentation, has been arranged by Hiram Blair, chairman for the occasion.

Justice H. Warner Hill, of the Georgia supreme court, is teacher of the Men's Class and W. Henry Smith is president.

POLICE SEEK SOLUTION OF MYSTERY SHOOTING

Carl Stanley, 18, Near Death at Hospital With Wound in Abdomen.

While Carl Stanley, 18, of 243 Lowry street, late Thursday night lay near death at a local hospital with a bullet wound in the abdomen, police were seeking to clear up the mystery surrounding his shooting and his subsequent arrival at the hospital.

Mrs. J. M. Gunn, a sister with whom the boy lives, was able to throw little light on the case. She told investigating officers that she left home shortly after noon Wednesday, saying that he was going fishing "with some of the boys."

Mrs. Gunn waited up for her brother until midnight, she said, and then retired. She was awakened at about 3 o'clock by a telephone call and was told that the boy was in a serious condition at the hospital.

She went at once to his bedside and found him in a semi-conscious state and unable to tell her anything of the shooting. Doctors and nurses stated they did not know who had brought the boy to the hospital. A check of undertaking establishments also failed to reveal that an ambulance had brought in the wounded boy.

Police at present hold the theory that the shooting was accidental, brought about by one of his companions and brought to the hospital by a friend who either was frightened and left without investigation or deemed it unnecessary to remain. They are probing the matter, however, in an effort to learn if the shooting was intentional.

RED ANTI-WAR DAY DAMPENED BY POLICE

In various degrees, Prague was probably the most militant capital outside of Paris, the Czechoslovakian officials concentrating troops and heavy police to prevent any kind of anti-war demonstrations.

The day passed with only minor outbreaks in Shanghai, China, where 20 arrests were made and communist literature seized.

PARIS POLICE CONTINUE ARRESTS

Paris, August 1.—(United News.)—Police raids on communist groups continued late tonight after a day of comparative quiet during which 2000 troops guarded a capital against danger of riot demonstrations. Police announced that 900 communists had been arrested in Paris, all of them being detained for questioning.

About 100 arrests were made on the Boulevard Montmartre at 10:20 p. m. when a group singing the "Internationale" refused to disperse of police orders.

The same number were jailed in the suburb of Asnieres shortly before midnight. Police and troops continued to patrol the brightly illuminated boulevards.

MARTIAL LAW IN CANTON

Canton, China, August 1.—(AP)—Martial law was declared in the city today owing to the widespread demonstrations on communist anti-war day. Throwing of a number of hand grenades in a government factory with resulting injuries to several workmen was considered the work of communists.

Troops patrolled the streets this afternoon to prevent any further meetings or demonstrations.

MOSCOW IS SCENE OF DEMONSTRATIONS

Moscow, U. S. S. R., August 1.—(AP)—Demonstrations on a large scale were held today in Moscow, Leningrad, Kharkov and other cities at which resolutions were passed declaring the danger of a new war and pledging support to the government's efforts in the cause of peace. A resolution adopted here protested against the "attitude of the British government in the Anglo-soviet negotiations."

Subscriptions for bonds of the third industrialization loan were made at the meetings.

SEVERAL WOUNDED IN ROUMANIA

Kishinev, Bessarabia, Roumania, August 1.—(AP)—Several persons were wounded here today when police broke up a communist demonstration. Many were also arrested. Among whom were said to be Russian communists who had come here to organize the movement.

BELGIUM PROTESTS FRENCH EJECTIONS

Brussels, Belgium, August 1.—(AP)—The government made strong representations to Paris this evening against the action of French authorities in conveying to the Belgian border communists ejected from France. France was told that Belgium would not admit any more of these deportees.

One special train bringing 450 communists from Paris was not allowed to enter Belgian territory. A special contingent of gendarmery was hurried to the border to cope with the situation. The prisons at Mons and Charleroi were filled tonight. In three days more than 2000 aliens, some of them ejected from France, have been arrested.

The German border near Aachen, where 600 German communists attempted to enter, was closely guarded.

EIGHT ARRESTED BY BOSTON POLICE

Boston, August 1.—(AP)—Eight persons were arrested and scores battered about the head tonight when 50 policemen with drawn clubs charged a crowd of 1,000 in the south end, gathered for observance of International Red day. As it gathered, three men went to police headquarters to protest alleged violence by the police.

TEAR BOMBS USED BY CHICAGO POLICE

Chicago, August 1.—(United News.)—Tear bombs, night sticks and banana stalks were brought into action tonight by police when 1,500 communist sympathizers gathered in front of the American theater where they were gathered for a meeting. About 20 persons, including several women, were arrested.

PARADE HALTED IN NEW YORK

New York, August 1.—(United News.)—A parade of 1000 communists, an organization of youthful communists, was halted by police today because the demonstrators had no permit. Two child marchers who fought back at the patrolmen were arrested. Older communist sympathizers who met in Union Square to protest against war were not molested.

HUNGER STRIKE STARTED IN JAIL

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., August 1.—(United News.)—A hunger strike was started today by 15 German and his wife, both of New York, in protest against their commitment to jail in default of a $10 fine. The couple were arrested yesterday for

Legal Holiday for Yale-Georgia Football Classic Is Proposed

BY ROBERT H. WILSON.
Recognition of the relationship between the University of Georgia and Yale university as of the services to this state by graduates of Yale was made in a resolution offered in the senate Thursday. The measure would proclaim October 12 of this year, a legal holiday to be known as Abraham Baldwin Day.

Sensors Goode, Pitner and Tyson, who introduced the resolution, set forth the major parts played in Georgia history by great men of the New Haven institution. They believed that the date on which the Yale football team comes to Georgia to play a widely-touted intersectional game should be utilized as a memorial to these men.

Abraham Baldwin, in whose honor the day would be named throughout the state, was a United States senator from Georgia and was the author of the charter of the state university at Athens. Another Yale graduate, Josiah Meigs, was an early president of the Georgia school and ruled a faculty made up almost entirely of Yale professors.

Lyman Hall, a governor of Georgia, delegate to the National Constitutional Convention and signer of the Declaration of Independence, was a Yale man, as was Nathan Brownson, a governor of this state.

If passed in the senate, the resolution will have to be concurred in by the house of representatives before becoming official.

Members of the senate believed this to be the only occasion on record that a football game will be officially recognized by the legislature as a legal holiday.

They were also wondering that a football game should be selected to portray the good feeling between two great universities.

distributing literature calling for observance of today as "International Red Day."

COMMUNIST CLASHES IN TRI-STATE AREA

Wheeling, W. Va., August 1.—(United News.)—Communist clashes with police were reported from scattered parts of the tri-state district today as Red sympathizers joined in the world-wide demonstrations against war.

Two members of the workers' (communist) party, Joseph Carr, of Cleveland, and Joseph Keen, of Pittsburgh, were arrested here on charges of distributing inflammatory literature. Mass meetings were scheduled

The Feel of Fluffed Silk

10,000 Women a Day are Changing to this New Immeasurably Gentler and 3 to 5 Times Longer Lasting Hygiene!

A Totally New Scientific Accomplishment That Adapts The Indescribable Gentleness of Pure Rayon Cellulose, The World's Softest Material, to Change All Previous Conceptions of Modern Day Hygiene.

It is called VELDOWN and it is utterly and completely different from any other hygienic pad women yet have known.

At the first touch to one's hand, one senses instantly the difference... the exquisite softness of Fluffed Silk to contrast the harshness of old ways.

Yet—it provides 10 times the absorbency of any other sanitary pad now known or ever known to women. And that means it can be worn in full security and peace-of-mind hours longer than any other sanitary pad.

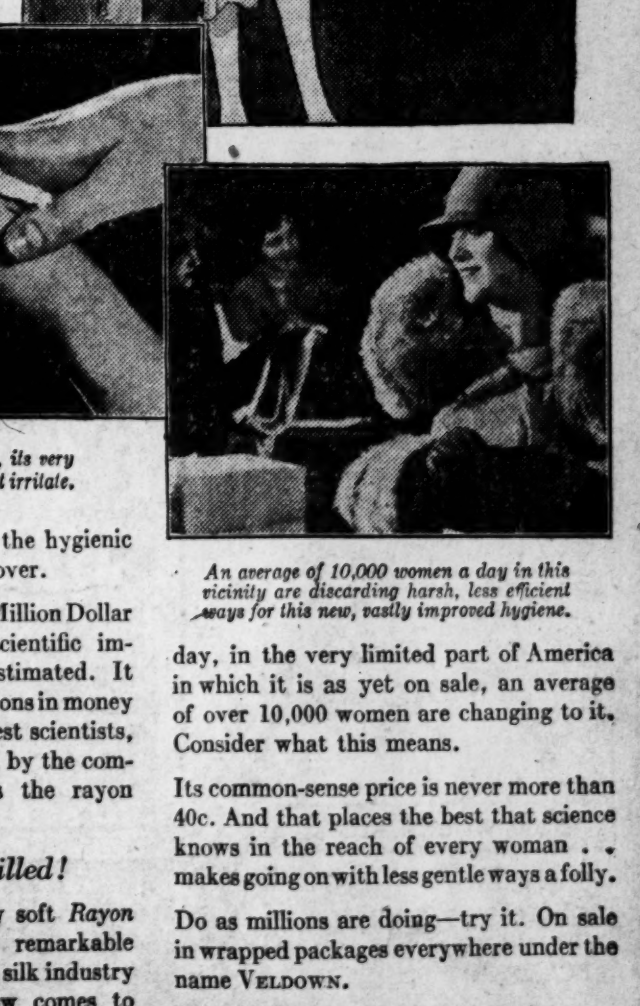

Then, too, it provides 76% greater powers of deodorization than old-time sanitary pads. It is as quickly disposable as tissue. It is made so it cannot irritate. Experts say it soon will revolutionize the hygienic habits of women the world over.

Developed by a Six Hundred Million Dollar industrial corporation, its scientific importance cannot be over-estimated. It marks the expenditure of millions in money and the work of years of ablest scientists, both of Europe and America, by the company in whose laboratories the rayon industry was cradled.

Rayon Cellulose Filled!

Its filler is the superlatively soft Rayon Cellulose, the basis of the remarkable fabric that revolutionized the silk industry of the world; and that now comes to banish harshness, chafing and discomfort from the wearing of sanitary pads.

Protected by world-wide patents, there is no other pad like it. Its use is sweeping from one end of the world to the other. Recent tabulations estimate that every

$4,680,000 INSURANCE PAID HERE DURING 1928

Atlanta Placed Among First 25 Cities of Country and Only One in South.

More than $4,680,000 was received by residents of Atlanta last year in payments from life insurance policies, it was disclosed in the annual "Life Payments Number," just released for publication by the National Underwriters, an insurance journal. The figure placed Atlanta among the first 25 cities of the United States and first city of the southeast in the list.

Among the states of this nation, Georgia ranked twelfth in amount of life insurance received in 1928, with a total of $37,250,000. There were 79 cities in the state in which payments of $10,000 or more were received.

During the year there were 256 recipients of life insurance payments in Atlanta, exclusive of industrial claims. Of these, 14 individual payments exceeded $35,000. The highest individual payment was that for William W. Herr, totaling $255,000, according to the figures of the insurance journal.

Other large individual payments were for James J. Goodrum, Jr., $212,000; Amos G. Rhodes, $177,500; Edgar Dunlap, $115,000; Ernest F. Culpepper, $101,000; Morris Rich, $57,000; Silas W. Davis, $53,770; Clarence H. Pearson, $52,500, and Eugene Lewis Daniel, $50,000.

The publication revealed that the highest payment of the year was made for Rodman Wansamaker, of Philadelphia and New York, the sum being $5,823,450. Five individual payments exceeded the million mark.

Engineer of NC-4, First Transocean Plane, in Atlanta

Ten years after the first successful crossing of the Atlantic ocean by plane, Lieutenant James I. Brees, Jr., engineer officer of the NC-4, was a visitor to Atlanta, where he was the guest of Philip H. Alston, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, at an informal luncheon in the directors' room Thursday. Gregory C. Howden, chairman of the chamber aviation committee, presided.

Lieutenant Brees described in simple, but stirring words the story of the flight. From the moment the plane took off until its landing at the little town of Horta, in the Azores, the crew faced unforeseen difficulties. Steam from nearby destroyers was enlisted to warm the engines in order to get them started. Then, after getting under way, it was necessary to drop overboard two cases of reserve oil and a storage battery in order to lighten the craft sufficiently to clear the breakers. Intense cold and fog in the far northern latitude followed the first course of the flight added to the difficulty of navigating. When the plane was due to arrive at the Azores according to the calculations of the navigator, no islands could be seen and only enough gas for an hour-and-a-half's cruising remained. By careful checking and cautious flying the first of the group was sighted and the plane taxied into the bay with only a few minutes' reserve gas left in the tanks.

The guests included B. S. Barker, Harry O. Mitchell, Jesse Draper, Ellis B. Barrett, J. K. Ortle, Jr., W. B. Hartsfield, G. C. Bowden, W. A. Dunlap, E. K. Large, C. F. Dieter, Claude Buchanan, Wylie Moore, Boyd Taylor, Herman Kulman and Henderson Hallman.

JACK LANCE FILES SUIT FOR $10,000 IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Jack Lance, who was freed from Fulton Tower when the solicitor-general not pressed the charge of murder against Lance in the Bert Donaldson case, entered the courts Thursday in the role of plaintiff.

Lance filed a $10,000 damage suit in the city court of Atlanta against the Conn Atlanta Corporation, and J. S. Kelbaugh, general manager of the company, for injuries alleged to have been received in an automobile accident. Miss Louise Echols, who was a passenger in Lance's car, also filed a $10,000 suit against the Conn corporation and Kelbaugh. Petitioners are represented by the law firm of Sims and Berman.

The accident was said to have occurred on July 13 at Highland avenue and Boulevard. Petitioners allege that Lance's car was knocked against a telephone pole, and that both Lance and Miss Echols were injured. Kelbaugh was said to have driven the corporation's car.

Following his conviction and sentence to death on the charge of murdering Bert Donaldson, an investigator in the solicitor-general's office, Lance was granted a new trial by the state supreme court. The charge then was not pressed and Lance was freed.

Partner Killed, East Point Motor Officer Resigns

When a speeding motorist forced Motorcycle Officer J. P. (Jack) Parker into a ditch last Sunday, causing him injuries which proved fatal an hour later, East Point lost two motorcycle patrolmen instead of one, it developed Thursday when Parker's partner, Elbert B. Andrews, handed his resignation to Chief of Police J. W. Miller.

"I cannot ride any more after seeing my friend killed," Andrews told Chief Miller. The chief understood and immediately accepted Andrews' resignation.

The speeder who forced Officer Parker into the ditch has not been identified.

Joseph McBride Hunnicutt OLDEST CITIZEN IN POINT OF RESIDENCE 85 TODAY An Atlantan for 84 Years

Joseph McBride Hunnicutt, believed to be Atlanta's oldest citizen in point of residence, will celebrate his eighty-fifth anniversary today.

Uncle Jo, as he is affectionately called by his friends, was brought to Atlanta when he was only a year and a half old. He and the city grew up together. He saw the first locomotive brought into Atlanta and is living to see trains puffing into the city every few minutes, the streets threaded with electric cars and crowded with automobiles, and with airplanes flying overhead.

"I know so much about Atlanta I don't even care to talk about it," said Uncle Jo with a little chuckle. "I was the first baby boy in Atlanta. Afterwards Charley Ivey was the first boy born in Atlanta and Julia Carlisle was the first girl. I was born on the Silvery plantation in Campbell county. My father was Eli Tiller Hunnicutt and my mother when a girl was Miss Emily Silvery. They came to Atlanta when I was 18 months old and except for the time I was in the Confederate army, I have lived here ever since. I have never been a citizen of any other town.

Lived on Broad Street. "When we first came to Atlanta we lived where the bridge crosses Broad street, but when the railroad made the big cut we moved out on the corner of Fair and Forsyth.

"I saw the first engine that ever came into Atlanta. The people were afraid of it and stood about a half a block away to watch it. My father held me up so I could see."

"They tried to make a good boy out of me," continued Uncle Jo, "so I went to the Baptist church Sunday morning and to the Methodist church Sunday night and then I joined the Presbyterians. Afterward I married an Episcopalian and went to the Episcopal church."

"I married Miss Clara Crandall, of Michigan, when I was in college at Valparaiso, Ind., and brought her to Atlanta. In 1884 my wife had asthma and the doctor advised us to move to the country, so we went way out and settled on Lawton street, near Beecher. I was with John Silvery & Company for 50 years and in 1919 was retired on a salary."

Is Devout Christian. Mr. Hunnicutt is a devout Christian and attends the Episcopal church regularly. He is a prominent Mason, possessing a solid gold life membership card to the W. D. Lucie lodge, No. 80, and is past master of the Yarah Temple and past high priest of the Horeb chapter. He is also past master of the Euclid council.

Mr. Hunnicutt is residing now at 665 Lee street, on the corner of York, and, as he himself expresses it,

"pleasantly situated near to his lodge, his church, his doctor and the post-office."

THREE REZONING PETITIONS DENIED BY ORDINANCE BODY

Adversing three petitions for rezoning various sections of the city, the ordinance committee of city council Thursday afternoon failed to consider a proposed revision of the plumbing ordinance and deferred action on a resolution of Councilman William E. Saunders which would have endorsed a rule requiring city employees to be residents of Atlanta.

The two latter matters were carried over until the next regular meeting of the committee slated for August 15.

Petitions of the Patisserie Lumier Company to rezone property it owns at Madeira avenue and Barnett street to industrial; McLendon avenue and Sutherland drive to business; and Piedmont avenue and Westminster drive to apartment house district were denied.

"Law Enforcement" Subject of Address Before Junior Chamber

"Law Enforcement" was the subject of an address before the weekly Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon Thursday afternoon by Hamilton Douglas, Jr., dean of the Atlanta Law school. John L. Westmoreland, the first president of the Junior Chamber organization, presided at the meeting.

Entertainment for the occasion was provided by specialty dances by Miss Louise Didschuneit and Miss Dorothy Humphries, while Kim Kalohi presented his Hawaiian ensemble, featuring C. J. Smith.

MISS ANN LANE NEWELL WEDS ROBERT A. WHATLEY, JR.

Tableau of Late Sixties Re-Enacted At Wedding

Reenacting the wedding tableau of the bride's grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson Fort Newell, whose marriage was a notable event of the year 1869 at "Old Pinebloom" in Baker county, near Albany, Miss Ann Lane Colquitt Newell plighted her troth to Robert A. Whatley, Jr., amid a setting of ante-bellum splendor last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Colquitt Newell, on Clifton road.

The exquisite costumes worn by the bridal attendants and the perfect execution in the decorative motif lent enchantment to the picture-like scene around which historical sentiment played such a conspicuous part. Several hundred members of Atlanta's fashionable society assembled at 9 o'clock for the picturesque occasion which was preceded by a musical program featuring old-fashioned airs directed by Enrico Leide, well-known orchestra leader, the numbers including selections from the Merry Widow, Blue Danube Waltz, Moonlight and Roses, Mignon's Gavotte, Paderewski's Minuet, Crinoline Days, La Poupée and selections from the opera, Manon. During the marriage service Lieberstrom and Moonlight Sonata were played softly.

Rev. John E. White, of Savannah, formerly of Atlanta, who was the officiating minister at the wedding of the bride's parents, performed the marriage rites.

Decorative Motif.

The lower floor of the house was lighted entirely by candles which lent an atmosphere of charm and beauty to the occasion. Old English ivy was in graceful abundance on the walls, the decorations, combined with myriads of white candles and summer flowers. In the spacious living room, where the marriage rites were read, a floral motif of green and white was effectively carried out. Extending across the broad fireplace, before which the bride and groom stood, were green pine tops that arose in pyramid effect to the center. Antique brass candelabras holding white lighted tapers shaded by antique crystal prisms gleamed amongst the pines and adorned the broad mantel shelf. Mounds of white gladioli, white roses, swainsonia and long white dahlias added the only floral note to the dark green background, the entire effect being emphasized by a suspended arch of white lighted tapers. Garlanded with white lighted tapers, the door arches, windows and wall brackets.

Wedding Attendants.

The bridal attendants descended the stairs as the orchestra sounded the first notes from the wedding march from "Lohengrin," the ushers, Russell Porter, Lee Aschcraft, Judge Walter Colquitt and Dr. Glenville Giddings, entering first.

The exquisitely costumed bridesmaids entered in pairs, alternating with the groomsmen, who also came in pairs. Misses Pamela Johnston and Constance Spaulding were the first two maids to enter, the former wearing amber-colored organdy and the latter wearing canary yellow organdy. Misses Ellen Wolfe and Mary Goldard walked together, with Miss Wolfe wearing a costume of jade green organdy while Miss Goldard's frock was fashioned of sage green organdy. The Marion Wolfe wore purple organdy and was accompanied by Miss Eugenia Morris, of New York, who was costumed in lavender organdy. Miss Sarah Hurt's gown was fashioned of rose-colored organdy and Miss Mary Armstrong, with whom she descended the stairs, wore pink organdy. The becoming and attractive costumes worn by the bridesmaids were fashioned alike, being replete of costumes worn during the ante-bellum days. The long graceful skirts reached to a floor length and were formed entirely of organdy ruffles. The close-fitting, sleeveless bodices were trimmed around the neckline by an organdy ruffle which fell off the shoulder in graceful effect, so characteristic of the style of the colonial period. Satin ribbon sash matching the costume of each maid added further trimming to the attractive costumes. The ends of the ribbon falling to the bottom of the skirt in the back from a large satin bow tied at the waistline. They carried garlands of smilax festooned with pastel-shaded flowers, the lovely garlands forming a beautiful floral chain effect as they grouped near together around the altar.

Miss Ellen Newell, the bride's only sister, who acted as maid of honor, descended the stairs alone, wearing a costume of sky blue organdy fashioned like those worn by the bridesmaids. Hanging gracefully over her left arm from a pink satin ribbon was a large pink straw woven hat filled with varicolored garden flowers, pink roses and blue delphinium predominating.

Little Miss Julia Colquitt, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Colquitt, followed the maid of honor and made a quaint and charming junior bridesmaid wearing a replica of the bridesmaids' costumes. Her frock was fashioned of cream-colored organdy over shell pink chiffon and she carried an old-fashioned nosegay of summer flowers. She was accompanied down the stairs by her youthful brother, Walter Colquitt, who, while attired in the conventional evening costume worn by the groomsmen.

The groomsmen included Nisbet Mayne, Madison Massey, Clifton Smith, Barnum Gambrell, Bernard Wolff, Richard Hobbs, of Albany, Ga., and Robert O. Persons, of Forsyth, Ga. Little Miss Dorothy Giddings, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leide, Giddings, preceded the bride and was a dainty flower girl wearing a frock of cream-colored organdy fashioned over light blue chiffon. From a small blue straw bonnet held over her left wrist by a blue satin ribbon she scattered pink rose petals in the bride's pathway.

Beautiful Bride.

The youthful bride was accompanied to the altar by her father, Alfred Colquitt Newell, by whom she was given in marriage and where they were joined by the groom and his best man, Frank Troutman. The bride's slender beauty was emphasized by her bridal costume of heavy ivory satin trimmed with exquisite rose point and duchess lace. A graceful drouse of the lace trimmed the lower part of the skirt, which reached to ankle length. The top of the close-fitting bodice was a wide fan effect from the neckline of an inch off the shoulders and was fashioned in a deep V shape in the back. The graceful train fell in a wide fan effect from the neckline of the skirt with an embroidery of tiny cream-colored seed pearls outlining the outer edge of the train. Adding a distinct touch to the colonial period was the row of tiny satin-covered buttons which extended up the center back of the beautiful costume. Unusual sentiment was attached to the exquisite bridal veil worn by the bride in the fact that the veil was worn by the bride's mother, when as Miss Ellen Hillyer, she plighted her troth to Alfred C. Newell. The veil belonged to Mrs. Frank Stewart, formerly Miss Evelyn Bell, and was worn first by this prominent Atlanta matron, a close friend of the mother of last evening's bride, who acted as a bridesmaid at Mrs. Stewart's wedding.

The filmy delicate net veil, which was bordered entirely by point de gise lace woven in scalloped design, was held to the bride's hair in cap effect by slender sprays of orange blossoms, the veil extending the length of the train.

An old fashioned bouquet of tuberoses, white heliotrope and valley lilies, the bride carried, was also her appearance of the lovely bride.

Elaborate Reception.

Immediately after the marriage service, Mr. and Mrs. Newell, the bride's parents, were hosts at an elaborate reception. They were assisted in receiving by the bride and groom, members of the bridal party, Mrs. George Hillyer, the bride's grandmother, and Mrs. Troy Bivings, Jr., whose marriage was a recent event. Mrs. Newell wore an elegant gown of rose pink transparent velvet fashioned with soft, graceful draperies. A shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies completed the beautiful costume.

Mrs. Hillyer wore a gown of black satin trimmed with rose point lace. Her shoulder bouquet was of orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. Hillyer's costume was fashioned of lettuce green chiffon veiling shell pink chiffon. Her shoulder bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies.

Misses Mary Harris, Isabel Breitenbuecher, Henrietta Mikell and Luntia Johnson formed an attractive group of the bride's close friends serving punch. Misses Runa Erwin and

Miss Walker Honors Miss Surtees At Home in LaGrange

Miss Adelaide Walker entertained at a spend-the-day party Wednesday at her home in LaGrange, honoring Miss Virginia Surtees, a popular bride-elect, the guests including the party of friends motoring down from Atlanta.

After an elaborate luncheon there was a visit to the large cotton rug factory, the output of which is most artistic in design and color, followed by a trip through the Perry gardens, which Mrs. Walker's Calloway opened for the pleasure of Miss Walker's guests.

Miss Walker was one of the teachers of Washington seminary several years ago, her department being mathematics.

The friends of Miss Walker, who were her guests, included Miss Virginia Surtees, Miss Emma Scott, Mrs. Thibault, of Jacksonville, Fla.; the Misses Prentiss, Miss Eda Bartholomew, Mrs. Aubrey Fisher, Mrs. William Dumas, Miss Marguerite Cooper, Miss Alice Downing, and Miss Nellie Belle Stark.

Miss Walker was assisted by her mother, and her sisters Mrs. Martin and Miss Lora and Miss Elise Walker.

Barber will entertain at luncheon today at Druid Hills Golf Club for Mrs. Noble, after which the guests, including Mrs. J. N. Williamson, Mrs. C. D. Culpepper, at her home on Waverly Way. Other parties are being planned for Mrs. Noble, the dates to be announced later.

Business Women's and Girls' Camp Opens.

The Camp Fire Girls' camping season at Toccoa closes August 12 and the new season, August 15, the adult camp for business women and girls will open. Registrations will be received at Camp Fire headquarters until noon, August 15, immediately. Phone Walnut 2738 for any further information.

Seventy-two members have been enrolled at the camp and twenty-five next week on a trail through the North Carolina mountains, stopping overnight at Bear Gap camp and Foote & Davis camp on the way to Chimney Rock, N. C., where they will camp overnight and cook the evening meal in the open. A new piano was presented as a gift from the Savannah group of Decatur, Mrs. J. Howell Green, guardian. Musicales are given during the evening by the campers, and a glee club of forty voices is being trained by Mrs. Laura V. Lombard, assistant director.

The nature love class is building a hut 12 by 12 feet, made entirely of bark. A rustic grove, with an archway built of tree branches forming the letters, "Camp Toccoa," is also being built and chairs and benches made from trees are being placed in the grove.

Estelle Boynton were in charge of the bride's book.

After congratulations were extended to the bride and groom, the guests assembled on the terrace of the Newell home, where dancing was enjoyed on the spacious pavilion erected for the occasion in the garden. An orchestra provided music for the dancing, the selections played being reminiscent of the bride and groom's courtship days.

Mr. Whatley and his bride left in the late evening for a wedding journey. On their return August 15 they will be at home with the bride's parents for the present.

Traveling costume was a striking three-piece model fashioned of reseda green wool crepe, the collar, cuffs and belt of the smart ensemble being of short-haired gray fur. A blouse of gray crepe and a small gray felt hat was worn with the attractive costume.

Prominent Families.

Both the bride and groom are popular members of Atlanta's younger society and are representatives of distinguished southern families. The bride made her debut in the season of 1926-27 and was treasurer of the club. She is a very popular member of the Atlanta Junior League and the Cotillion Club and has enjoyed the cultural advantages of European travel, having spent six months abroad the summer after she made her debut. She attended Tenth Street school, Washington seminary and was graduated from North Avenue Presbyterian school, and took a post-graduate course at Sweetbriar college in Virginia. On her paternal side she is a granddaughter of the late Captain and Mrs. Tomlinson Fort Newell, of Milledgeville, Ga., while Mrs. George Hillyer is her maternal grandmother, and the late Judge Hillyer, one of the most distinguished jurists in the south, was her maternal grandfather.

The bride is a charming girl of the brunette type of loveliness, and possesses a graciousness of manner and magnetic personality. She is a great-niece of the late Mrs. Mary Newell McCorkle, affectionately known to her intimates as "Big Auntie," and who made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Newell.

Mr. Whatley is a son of Robert A. Whatley, of Charlotte, N. C., who formerly resided in Georgia, and a grandson of the late Wilson C. Whatley, who served with the army of Virginia during the Civil War. He attended Lafayette High school, Oxford academy and Emory university and is a member of the A. T. O. fraternity. Like his lovely bride, Mr. Whatley is descended from prominent and aristocratic forebears.

Civic Theater Presents Comedy.

Shaw's delightful comedy, "You Never Can Tell," will be presented Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 o'clock by the Civic theater, of Atlanta, in the White Barn, corner Fourteenth and Peachtree streets.

Under the direction of Gwynne Burrows, a cast has been trained to delight an audience composed of those who appreciate the better one of the human King as Valentine, a young English dentist in love with Gloria (Grace Hoyl), are a pair of lovers who overthrow the theories of Mrs. Clanton, the "twentieth century woman," ably portrayed by Emelzie Wood. Herbert Nellis, as the English solicitor, and Parker Ford, as William the butler, who reads Schopenhauer, are interpreted with the skill due typical Shavian characters.

Comedy of the lightest and most amusing variety is afforded by the amusing acting of Betty Mathieu and Charles Johnson as the Clanton twins. Mrs. Burdette complete a cast which moves quickly through four brilliant acts.

"You Never Can Tell," the fourth production of the summer series offered by the Civic theater, is one of the most popular plays written by Shaw, having seen a longer run in England than any other one of his plays, and having been staged by little theater groups in this country more than any other drama.

Miss Birdsey Becomes Bride Of John C. Hogg in New York

New York, N. Y., August 1.—Miss Mary Birdsey, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hiram Birdsey, of Savannah, became the bride of John Collier Hogg, of Norfolk, Va., in a beautiful ceremony solemnized today at Grace Episcopal church. The marriage service was read by the Rev. J. Brett Langstaff, and the beautiful young bride was given in marriage by her father, Albert H. Birdsey. There were no attendants and the ceremony was witnessed only by members of the bride's and groom's immediate families.

Maiden blue crepe fashioned the smart ensemble costume worn by the bride, the dainty blouse being of white crepe and her hat of a matching shade of blue. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of pale lavender orchids and sweetpeas.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left on the French liner De Grasse for a six weeks' trip to Europe. On their return they will make their home in Norfolk.

Mrs. Hogg is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Birdsey and is one of the most beautiful and attractive girls in society. She graduated from Dana Hall, Wellesley, Mass., and made her debut a few years ago, since which she has been one of the most popular girls in society, her sweet, lovable nature and mental attainments having endeared her to all with whom she came in contact.

She is a member of the Junior League, in which she has taken an active part. Two years ago she was visiting his mother, Mrs. E. G. Brantley.

Washington, August 1.—(P)—In a letter addressed to the federal trade commission and made public today, 600 national and local trade associations joined in requesting that the commission make public its findings on the complaints lodged against "the shameless exploitation of women and children by cigarette interests which are attempting to substitute nicotine for the consumption of wholesome foods."

The letter, presented through the national food products protective committee, contended that the campaign sponsored by a single manufacturer "is opposed to the interests of the tobacco trade as a whole, to the interests of honest cigarette manufacturers and to the overwhelming majority of American producers and manufacturers."

Washington, August 1.—(P)—A. E. Clift, president of the Central of Georgia railway, announced today that both the gross and net operating income of his line showed an increase for June and the six months period ending June 30.

Increases were noted in the freight and mail revenue for the six months period, the president said, but a decrease of 6.2 or $122,000 in passenger revenue was also recorded.

The executive declared that the heavy watermelon crop would make up for part of the loss in freight due to the light peach production.

"The tobacco crop promises to bring a large amount of money into the state," Mr. Clift declared. "Prospects for the cotton crop are good, but at this date it is impossible to form an accurate forecast."

TOBACCO STORAGE BARN FIRE BURNS 25,000 POUNDS

Thomasville, Ga., August 1.—(Special).—Around 25,000 pounds of cured tobacco was burned yesterday when a tobacco storage barn at Dillon was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin. The barn and tobacco were property of Turner and White and Mr. White, with his family, occupied the front portion of the building as a dwelling house. Contents of the barn were covered by insurance. The tobacco was to have been brought to the Thomas county warehouse here before the end of this week.

Savannah, Ga., August 1.—(P)—Patrolman H. V. Fitzgerald was killed today in the center of the negro section by a negro he sought to arrest who was in turn slain by police reserves called out to seek the officer's assailant.

The officer had gone into Yamacraw, the negro district, to arrest the negro, Dave Singleton, on charges of shooting a negro woman. Another officer found him a short time later with a bullet wound through the heart and a call for reserves immediately was sent in.

All available city patrolmen and county officers answered the call to the scene where a considerable crowd had gathered and took up the chase after Singleton. The negro was cornered by Officer M. G. Gregory and when Singleton offered resistance, Gregory fired once, the bullet entering the fugitive's chest.

Calling out reserves created considerable excitement and for an hour or more that section of the city was in turmoil, but there was no display of violence from anyone besides the negro sought for slaying the officer.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

CUBBY FINDS HIMSELF CAST OFF By Thornton W. Burgess.

Upon four own feet firmly stand And all the world's respect command—Old Mother Nature.

Cubby Bear had been awake for three days. I do not mean by that that he had been awake all of three days. What I do mean is that it was three days since he had awakened from the long winter sleep which is called hibernation. Ever since he had been wandering about with no purpose whatever. It was all aimless. Now and then he would lay down for a nap. He had felt no hunger when he awoke. Perhaps this was just as well, for there was little enough to eat. The reason he had had no hunger was because his stomach had been idle so long that it had shrunk to almost nothing. Now, however, at the end of three days it was beginning to make itself known.

Cubby knew where there ought to be certain delicious roots that he could dig up. At first he thought it was the Big Bear that had frightened him the day he came out of his winter sleep. But presently a Merry Little Breeze came tickling his nose and bringing him the scent of this other big Bear. It was Mother Bear. There was no doubt about it—it was Mother Bear! Cubby looked around for his twin sister, but he didn't see her anywhere. Then he started forward to join Mother Bear in digging up those delicious roots.

A deep rumble, grumbly growl was his greeting. It stopped Cubby short. It wasn't pleasant, that growl. There was no love in it. More than this, it wasn't even friendly. Cubby stopped abruptly with his eyes popping right out. Could it be that his mother didn't know him?

"It's me," said Cubby in a not-too-loud voice.

In reply Mother Bear lifted her lips and showed her teeth and again growled that rumble-grumbly growl that made such an uncomfortable feeling along Cubby's backbone.

"Don't you know me?" he ventured once more.

just wanted to be somewhere else and he was proceeding to get there as fast as he could.

Back in the hollow Mother Bear resumed her digging of roots. She grinned. "He thinks I didn't know him," thought she. "Well, it is just as well he should think so. If I would let him, he would be tagging at my heels and the time has come for him to be out for himself in the Great World. I can't have half-grown youngsters tagging around when there are babies to look out for. That reminds me, I must hurry back and see that the darlings are all right."

Meanwhile, Cubby Bear, once more reminded of the emptiness of his stomach, was hunting for roots in another part of the Green Forest and was all the time wondering why his mother had treated him so.

"I'll never go near her again," muttered Cubby. "No, sir, I'll never go near her again."

And this, if he had only known it, was exactly what Mother Bear wanted.

Princeton Invited To Play in Dedication Game at Oglethorpe CRACKERS BEAT PELS IN TWIN-BILL

PETRELS SEEK PRINCETON TILT FOR NEW BOWL

Mayor Ragsdale Urges
Game in Letter to Dr.
Charles Kennedy.

Possibility that Princeton university's football team would play in the official dedication game of the new Oglethorpe university stadium in 1933 loomed Thursday when an invitation was extended to the athletic association of the northern school to play the Petrels in their new bowl here.

Urging that Princeton arrange a game here, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Thursday addressed a letter to Dr. Charles N. Kennedy, chairman of the board of athletic control of the eastern institution, pointing out the advantages each of the schools would receive from the clash.

The Princeton Alumni Association has been invited to meet in Atlanta that year, and plans call for a great statewide educational celebration. Mr. Ragsdale stated that both institutions would receive much good from the game at that particular time.

Mayor Ragsdale's letter to Dr. Kennedy follows:

"Dr. Charles N. Kennedy, Chairman, Board of Athletic Control, Princeton University, Princeton, N. J.
Dear Sir:
Through Dr. Thorne Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university, I have learned that an invitation has been extended to the football team of Princeton university to play Oglethorpe in a game dedicating the new Oglethorpe stadium in 1933. I learn also from Dr. Jacobs that the National Alumni Association of Princeton will be invited to meet in Atlanta at that time and that both of these events will form part of a great statewide educational celebration, centering in Atlanta and on Oglethorpe campus. Oglethorpe university, as you know, is founded in honor of General James Edward Oglethorpe, founder of Georgia. The events as outlined by Dr. Jacobs would be of outstanding benefit to both institutions and advance the cause of education.

"I sincerely hope that your institution will accept the invitation extended by our university.
Very truly,
I. N. RAGSDALE, Mayor."

Bout Squabble Angers Jacobs

Sacramento, Cal., August 1.—(AP)—Dr. Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, German heavyweight title contender, declared here today that Schmeling is not under contract to fight Jack Sharkey at Naven field, Detroit, September 19, or at any other date.

Furthermore, arrangements to hold the fight in Detroit do not meet with approval in the Schmeling camp, Jacobs said.

Jacobs aired his displeasure while Schmeling slumbered at a local hotel, resting for an exhibition.

Jacobs' objection to holding the fight, which he claims will "practically settle the heavyweight championship" in Detroit is that there is no place large enough to accommodate the 100,000 fight fans he expects to have in attendance.

"Three places, New York, Chicago and Detroit, were under consideration for the fight," Jacobs said. "New York is definitely out. Detroit can't handle the crowd that will see the fight. And Chicago is my choice. Fifty per cent of Chicago is German and fifty-one per cent of Wisconsin."

William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, has an option on Schmeling for the Sharkey fight, Jacobs said, but there is no contract.

"It's Detroit," Says Buckley.

Detroit, Mich., August 1.—(AP)—John Buckley, manager for Jack Sharkey, tonight said that if Max Schmeling, the German heavyweight, wanted to fight the Boston sailor he would have to come to Detroit to do it. Buckley made the statement following a three-hour session with the Michigan state boxing commission.

"Sharkey is ready for a fight any time, and I want him to fight here," he said.

CANZONERI GOES AFTER CROWN

Seeks To Take Lightweight Title From Sam
Mandell Tonight.

By Charles W. Dunkley.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Chicago, August 1.—(AP)—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion of the world, will wear his three-year-old crown into Paddy Canzoneri's Chicago stadium tomorrow night and defy Tony Canzoneri to knock it off.

They will meet in a ten-round battle to a decision of a referee and two judges. Upwards of 20,000 spectators will witness the count, with indications of a gate ranging around $130,000.

Mandell, defending his title for the third time against a really dangerous challenger since he won it three years ago, will enter the ring a 2-2-1 favorite. The champion, perfectly trained and in the greatest physical condition of his career, has no fear of losing to the former featherweight champion. He figures his advantage in weight, speed, reach and strength will carry him to victory. Canzoneri seems just as confident he can bounce a knock-out punch off Mandell's chin.

MANDELL FAVORED.
Unless the boxing experts are completely wrong, Mandell figures to win as he pleases from Canzoneri.

The champion will outweight Canzoneri by four to five pounds by the time they crawl into the ring. Mandell has had no really serious difficulty in paring himself down to the championship limit of 135 pounds, despite all reports to the contrary. Canzoneri, on the other hand, has been building himself up and figures to scale around 142 pounds.

Mandell laughed off reports that he had been harassed by threats of violence presumably made by gambling factions and that he had been under police guard at his hotel.

"That's just a lot of bunk," the champion said.

Over his head, he wore a workout equivalent to seven rounds in his final training session this afternoon. He did no boxing but went through the motions of walloping the light punching bag, shadow boxing and jumping the rope. Canzoneri remained in his suburban training camp and took only enough light exercise to get up a healthy perspiration. He remained in the country tonight.

CUT HEALS.
The cut over the challenger's right eye, sustained in his last previous bout with Phil McGraw, is not likely to give much trouble during the battle despite exposure to persistent jabbing, in the opinion of the challenger's handlers. The wound was virtually healed when Canzoneri opened camp two weeks ago and careful treatment has allowed the cut to heal entirely.

Overshadowed by the championship bout is another lightweight encounter of major importance in the ten-round meeting of Ray Miller, the Chicago left hook artist, and Luis Vicentini, the Chilean, Miller, who has knocked out Jimmy McLarnin, Tony Grogan and Lope Teuerio, will make his first start in Chicago, his home, since becoming a dangerous challenger for the lightweight title.

Hapeville W. O. W. defeated the Hampton baseball team, 8 to 6, Thursday afternoon at Chandler field. A feature of the game was the pitching of Landers for W. O. W. He struck out nine batters, allowed only five hits and contributed a double.

Donie Bush Shifts Pirate's Lineup

Pittsburgh, August 1.—(United News)—Earl Shely, Pittsburgh Pirates' first baseman, was benched today by Donie Bush for the first time this season. Paul Waner was shifted in from right field to take Shely's place and Fred Beckett went into the Pittsburgh outfield. Manager Bush said the shift was only temporary.

Pictured herewith a few scenes from the Crackers' double win over the Pelicans at Spiller's Thursday. At the top, left, George Cornett's camera caught Dick Burrus flat on the ground just after he had jumped for a high bouncer from Blakesley's bat and missed it. Blakesley is shown crossing the sack at first. At right, top, Al Lopez has just smacked out a double. At the right, bottom, part of the crowd of 8,000 is standing up in the seventh inning of the second game, pulling for the Crackers to rally, which they did.

Good Leads Cardinals To Win at Albany

Atlanta Sandlot Crew Downs Macon, 3-1, In Opening of State Eliminations

By Ralph McGill.

Constitution Staff Correspondent.
Albany, Ga., August 1.—Atlanta's sandlot team, with Bill Good doing the heavy hitting, is looking ahead to Meridian tonight after defeating the Macon team, 3 to 1, in a seven-inning game.

Wilbur Good, the silent man of the Atlanta Crackers, would have enjoyed the game today. Wilbur Good, Jr., rightfielder for the Inman Park Cardinals, Atlanta champions, hit a single and a double, scored two runs, stole two bases and was quite obnoxious to the Macon club.

Even the young ladies, those around 15 years of age, were admiring several of the Cardinals. There was one young lady about 12 years old selling potato chips and looking every time Bill Good came to bat. There never are any ladies pausing to look at Bill Good, Sr., which maybe is a good thing. There ought to be peace in the family.

The Inman Park Cardinals, looking very smart and professional, arrived at the park an hour and a half late after Albany had taken Columbus over the jumps. The rain had been delayed because of a hot box somewhere up the line. They came hustling in carrying their bags and hats with little Bill Gershon struggling with the bats. It was a proud day for him, just eight years old and traveling with a baseball club. Hot dog!

His eyes were big as the Cardinals came in with just the suggestion of a swagger.

WHY NOT?
They had been undefeated in Atlanta and why shouldn't they swagger?

"So far I have made no personal arrangements for 1930," Tilden said, "but I have definitely finished my career as a member of official teams."

Four other American tennis stars, Francis T. Hunter, Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn, and John Hennessy, also sailed aboard the Majestic.

BUDDY BAUER WINS HANDICAP

Bradley Colt Scores First
Victory of Saratoga Season.

By Orlo L. Robertson,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, August 1.—(AP)—Buddy Bauer, a campaigner for four years on American turf, today won his first battle of the Saratoga season as he flouted the white and green colors of E. R. Bradley in the faces of a classy field of matured runners to win the American Legion handicap at Saratoga.

The race, which was for three-year-olds and up at one mile, was worth only $2,900 to the winner, but it brought out many of leading candidates for sprint honors.

Although winning by a length and a half from Ironides, a four-year-old colt owned by R. L. Gerry, there was some doubt as to Buddy Bauer's score. "Tony" McAtee, who rode Ironides, lodged a claim of four against M. Garner, who had the mount on the Bradley horse, but the stewards allowed the result to stand. Ironides beat Discretion by a head for the place. The mile was stepped in 1:26 3/5.

The secondary feature at Saratoga also brought out another classy field of thoroughbreds. The event was the Ticonderoga purse for three-year-olds and up at seven furlongs. J. E. Winder's Man o' War colt, Marine, proved the best of the field with the nine-year-old Cherry Pie second and W. R. Coe's Flair third.

The practice of riding three winners a day continued at Arlington park with Jockey R. Heicle turning the trick today. He was up on Tasman, winner of the day's opener; Frances Rock, victor in the second event; Carist, which led the field home in the sixth. All three were outsiders. Tasman playing $14.00 to win, Frances Rock $10.00 and Carist $17.50.

Jean Valjean, a promising two-year-old but a disappointment as a three-year old this year, won the Aralon purse, which featured the day's card. Prince Pat, from the Three 1/2's stock farm of Texas, was four lengths back for the place but a length and a half in front of Crofton, which took down the short end of the purse. Jean Valjean, paid only $2.84 for a $2 win ticket at the mutual window.

ATLANTA WINS FIRST GAME, 5-4, AND SECOND, 2-1

Sheehan, Johnny Jones
Supply Victory Punch in Double Killing.

By Ed Danforth.

Furious last inning batting rallies gave the fighting Crackers two victories over the Pelicans in a double-header at Spiller Field yesterday afternoon, 5 to 4 and 2 to 1. For 4 hours and 20 minutes eight thousand people were rocked with excitement as the heroic struggle for second place was waged by the baseball armies of Atlanta and New Orleans.

Never have two such furiously fought games developed on the same day in the annals of baseball in the hollow opposite old Ponce de Leon spring. If the melodramatic climax and the laying of the fan-packs did not bestir the ghosts of players long departed, then the ghosts are laid indeed.

Hanging on as a blooded bulldog, clinging to a bull's snout, the Crackers pulled down a three-run Pelican lead in the ninth inning of the first game. Old Jack Sheehan's single to center in the tenth sent Pitcher "Climax" Blenheim galloping home with the run that won.

And as darkness settled over the field in the seventh and final inning of the second game, Johnny Jones laid down a workmanlike squeeze bunt that went for a base hit as Nick Cullop scored from third base.

8,000 Diners Wait.
While eight thousand diners waited, the mob stayed and stared. The Crackers showed their mettle by winning the first game in a last spurt and the mob had no idea of leaving before the last man was out, if it had taken until midnight.

The Pelicans were battling for that last game even harder than they had fought for the first. Close decisions three of them, they were ejected from the field by the umpires for protesting too vigorously.

The double victory hoisted the Crackers to within a game and a half of the Pelicans. The Barons eked out a 11-to-10 victory at Mobile and maintained their four and one-half game margin, however.

Manager Larry Gilbert showed Atlanta fans the two slowest pitchers in the civilized world; hence the four-hour matinee.

Clint Brown pitched the first nine innings by observing a full three-minute rest between every pitched ball. He was a team in the back to the congregation and they booed and howled.

But when Cousin Dave Danforth took the field in the second game and began fiddling around with the ball, clocks stopped, all time ceased and eternity became a painful reality. Dave was slower than a Peacemaker car running 10 miles ahead of time. It was a vast relief when Cousin Dave got mad in the seventh inning over a close decision at first base and was asked by Teacher Hop-

Yanks, Cardinals Face Complete Overhauling for Next Season

BENCH BERTH FOR BABE RUTH, SAYS RUMOR

Youngster From Alabama Has Chance To Replace Slugging King.

By George Kirksey
United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, Aug. 1.—(United News.)—Great baseball machines a year ago, the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals face a complete and thorough overhauling before the 1930 season.

Miller Huggins, manager of the world champions, has not given up hope of overhauling the Philadelphia Athletics, but he has started making plans for next season.

Not even Babe Ruth is a regular fixture in the plans for the Yankees' 1930 line-up. Sam Byrd, the 22-year Tuscaloosa, Ala., outfielder, may take the Babe's place more frequently next season than he did this year.

The Yankees are going to have several players to place on the market this winter, among them possibly Bob Menzel, Ben Paschal, Mark Honig, and perhaps one or two veteran pitchers.

LARY TO PLAY.
Lyn Lary, the $100,000 infielder, probably will be ready to take his regular place in the Yankees' line-up next season, either at third or shortstop. Gene Robertson, who unexpectedly won the third base job this season, is not likely to win the post again next season.

The Yankees' pitching staff will be dismantled and remade. Waite Hoyt and Herb Pennock are no longer the bulwarks of the staff. George Pipgras has had a disappointing season, but his job is certain for next year. Ed Wells and Freddy Heimach also loom as regulars again.

Bill Dickey, one of the best young players of the season, is again counted on as the Yankees' first string catcher for 1930.

The situation with the St. Louis Cardinals is even more unsettled than with the Yankees. The Cardinals may have to hire another manager next season, as William B. McKechnie, who was recently brought back to the helm from Rochester, will retire from baseball if he is elected tax collector of his home town of Wilkinsburg, Pa., next month.

DISASTROUS SEASON.
Grover Cleveland Alexander, Joe Willie Sherdel and Clarence Mitchell have had disastrous seasons and are not likely to fill regular roles on the Cardinals' pitching staff next year.

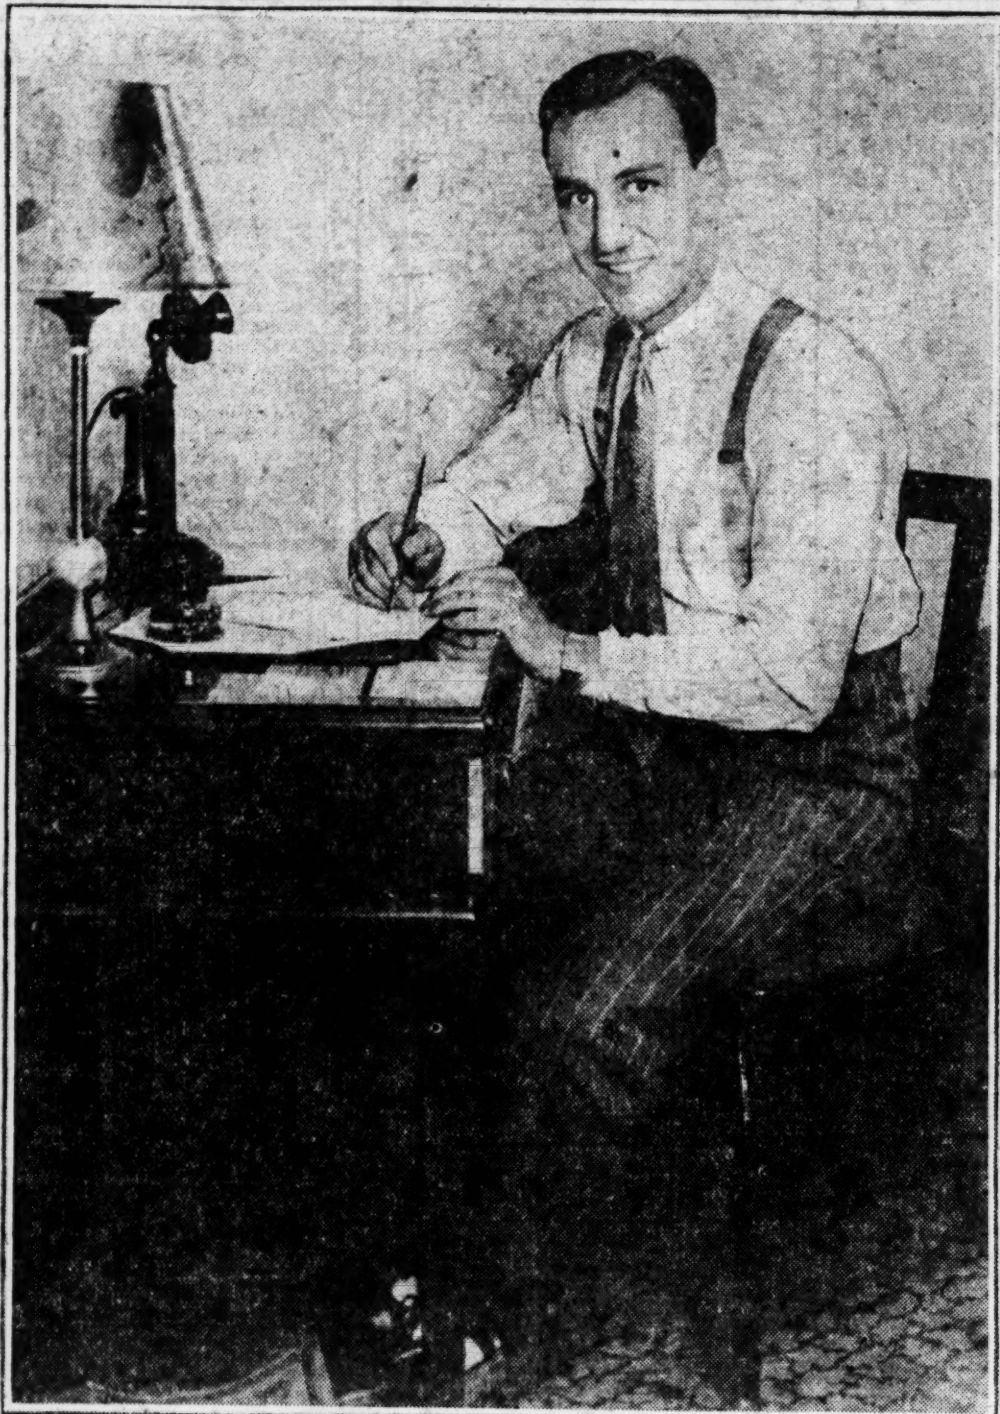

The Cardinals' infield needs new blood. Jim Bottomley and Frankie Frisch, the latter at second or third, are fixtures, but Andy High and Charley Gelbert may lose their berths.

Chuck Hayfert probably will retain his left field berth and Taylor may hold down center field again, but the Cardinals are seeking a couple of new hard-hitting outfielders from their chain of farms.

The Cardinals also need another catcher to team up with Jimmy Wilson, as Earl Smith is just about through.

Arm Troubles.
Goos Goslin's throwing arm is fully recovered and Calley Heston hopes he will enjoy the same pleasure. Goslin's arm was hurt nearly a year. Heston hasn't thrown since spring.

POLO SERIES ON PROGRAM AT M'PHERSON

Regulars To Meet Corps Area Team—Guards at Oglethorpe.

By Ben Cothran.
Polo teams of Atlanta will battle for the next three weeks on separated fields.

While the Horse Guards are encamped at Fort Oglethorpe, meeting the sixth cavalry team in three games, Fort McPherson and a team from the fourth corps area headquarters will be staging a series of three games with the McFadden & Bros. trophy to be awarded the winner.

The trophy is being awarded through Major Gus Tolson, senior representative of the firm in Atlanta and first-string player on the McPherson team. In addition to this trophy each member of the winning team is to be given a silver goblet by the Fort McPherson Polo and Riding Club.

TEAM DIVIDED.

McPherson's regular team will be split up for this series as Frank, Lieutenant Procter and Shubert are on the corps area staff but play on the fort's first-string. The above-mentioned trio, with Major Gaugler, will compose the area four and Lieutenant Timberman will be held in reserve. The new team has been practicing steadily and will put up a tough battle in the series.

McPherson will have Comfort, Tolson and Wing as its nucleus. All three play first-class polo and the outfit should be as effective as usual, although the loss of Frank and Procter will be felt. Captain Donahue will play a regular position with Captains Ramsey and Childs in reserve. A game will be played each Sunday afternoon.

The Horse Guards, fresh from three straight victories over McPherson, will find their hands full when the Oglethorpe outfit is encountered. McPherson played the latter outfit earlier in the season and was defeated, two games to three.

Gay, newly discovered 1 of the Guard team, has recovered from his attack of lead poisoning and will be back in the saddle for the series. Christian, Love and Moran will compose the rest of the lineup.

With the strengthened lineup and new ponies the Horse Guards are confident of a good showing against the regulars and are hoping for a victory in the series. They will leave for camp Sunday morning. The polo string will be shipped up Saturday afternoon.

Real American Youth Uncovered By Legion

Regular Boys Are Found on Teams Competing for Baseball Honors at Albany.

By Ralph McGill.
Albany, Ga., August 1.—Down here where the palm fronds move lazily in the breeze that meanders up Pine street from Flint river, are gathered some 50 or more American boys.

I do not mean the effete type that rides slowly by in a low-cut roadster with a camera-like and bored young lady with him. Oh, no, indeed, I am speaking of the American boy of song and story. There was a story some time ago that he was extinct. He was gone, they said, and the sleek young lads had taken his place.

Well, he isn't. Somebody is still raising the American boy. I mean the kind whose hair isn't greased at the age of 15 and who may let the press get out of his pants for a day or so at a time. I mean the kind that wears overalls until he is 10 or 20 years old. I mean the kind who may cuss wholesomely now and then and not viciously. I mean the kind that has a pair of legs and arms, and likes to use them somewhere besides on the throttle, the steering wheel and the dance floor. I mean the good old-fashioned, freckled-faced boy who still gets a kick out of a train ride and stopping at a hotel. Yes, sir, he still exists. They are strolling around town here waiting for the state baseball tournament to begin.

REGULAR FELLOWS.
They are, for the most part, cool and comfortable with their collars undone. They have on tan shoes, high-top shoes and slippers. I had forgotten about slippers. Their eyes are open wide and a certain naiveness that is peculiar to the American boy. They're all one. They like to look in store windows and they think all the girls are pretty. They lug along bundles of baseball clothes under their arms and they are happy and ready to die for dear old Atlanta, Rome, Lindale, Macon or what towns have you.

There is not a single bored young man in town. They have come from five cities in Georgia to determine the best sandlot baseball team in the state. The winner in this tournament, which concludes Friday afternoon, will go later in the month to Meridian, Miss., for the regional finals.

And if there were ever any young men deserving of a panegyric these are they. Kipling said that the World War was won on the cricket fields. And having seen these boys and knowing that in every state in the union this same scene is being enacted, the nation may lie down on its Simmons, Murphy or roll-away beds tonight in a peaceful frame of mind. The world is safe for democracy. Atlanta's champions, the Inman Park Cardinals, and the others from Georgia and other states will see to that.

This is the third year in which the American Legion has conducted a national baseball tournament. It was only last year that it attained a really national scope. The major leagues appropriated $50,000 that year to pay for the transportation of teams to the regional championships and to the junior world series. The legion supplies the uniforms, neat ones with the legion insignia on the sleeves. The legion transports players to the state tournaments. The major leagues aid after that.

The legion wanted to aid the American boys. The major leagues wanted to get more boys interested in baseball.

Both succeeded. The American boy, the real American boy, has appeared once more. The told nick names are heard once more. "Scabbie," "Fanny," "High Pockets." All the old names are heard once more.

Yes, sir, down here where the winds from Flint river stir the palm fronds the sandlot champions are gathering. And the world looks safe for democracy.

GARLINGTON, WALSH PLAY AT C. C. TODAY

Club Title at Stake—Robinson Scores First Hole-in-One.

Two young Atlanta golfers, Dick Garlington and Tully Walsh, will play 36 holes over the Capital City course today to decide the 1929 Capital City club champion. The morning round will start at 11 o'clock and the afternoon round will start at 2 o'clock.

Garlington won his way to the finals in the upper bracket of the championship flight, while Walsh was in the lower flight. Both players had two exceptionally hard matches before reaching the finals.

All the flight championship matches except the first were completed last week, but Garlington was out of the city and his match was postponed until today.

The club trophy will be presented to the winner and trophies and prizes will be given to all flight winners, runners-up and to the medalist.

Roby Robinson, playing with Tommy Shropshire, Jr., on the Capital City course Thursday afternoon experienced his first hole-in-one. At the short 140-yard twelfth par three-hole, Robinson used a mashie niblick and hit the ball high in the air. It landed only a few inches from the cup and rolled in for an eagle and his first "dodo."

Double-Header Halts Tourneys.

Forrest Hills and West End golfers were too interested Thursday in the Atlanta-New Orleans double-header to be concerned about their club tournament in progress and no matches were played.

Forrest Hills golfers have until Sunday week to complete first-round matches in the club championship and West End golfers have until next Sunday night to complete semi-final matches in the club handicap tournament.

Ansel Ends Five Matches.

Ansel Park golfers completed five matches Thursday in the club handicap tournament now in progress in the second round. W. D. Thompson

Girl Baseball Leaders To Meet

Western Heights Baptist will play the Alpha Class of Wesley Memorial in the only baseball game scheduled for Saturday, 4 o'clock, on the English Avenue school diamond, in the girls' league sponsored by the Y-Church Athletic Association. Both clubs won their opening game and this battle will break the deadlock for first place.

Center Street Methodist and Peachtree Christian, although scheduled to play Saturday have postponed their game to a later day at the latter's request.

Home Run Brings Player Shotgun

Alexandria, La., August 1.—(AP) "Bad News" Hale, the celebrated home run swatter on the Alexandria team of the Cotton States league, got a shotgun and three home runs in a double-header yesterday.

Hale crashed one over the fence in the first game. The mayor then presented him a $100 shotgun in behalf of the fans and he sent two more over in successive times at bat.

The heavy batter plays third base.

Babe Ruth Hits His 25th Homer

New York, August 1.—(AP)—Babe Ruth hit his twenty-fifth home run of the season today in the sixth inning of the encounter between the Yankees and the White Sox to give New York a 2-2 tie. Ted Lyons was the mound for Chicago. The bases were empty. The homer left the Babe one behind his rival, Lou Gehrig.

Enterprising.

An enterprising photographer caught some famous sons of ball players in the St. Louis park recently. They were the sons of Bob Smith, of the Braves; Bill Sherdel, George Sisler and Billy Southworth.

TARIFFS INCREASED ON FARM PRODUCTS Increase on Rice Voted by House Eliminated by Senate Board.

Washington, August 1.—(AP)—Agricultural tariff duties were given some boosts today by the republicans of the senate finance committee as they worked through another hot day in revising the house tariff measure.

For the most part, the agricultural duties were left about the same as in the house bill but increases were voted on corn, cherries, dates, lemons and onions. The rate for the house measure on corn, wheat, potatoes, pineapples, rye and apples were approved without change. The increase voted by the house on rice was eliminated by the senate committee.

The agricultural schedule which is regarded as the heart of the new tariff measure was not completed. It was announced by Chairman Charles McNary, of the committee, that he would have ready tomorrow his sliding scale sugar tariff which he intends to offer as a substitute for the flat increase in the sugar duty provided by the house. The scale, he said, would apply on refined sugar. A public hearing will be held on the sliding scale next Wednesday, after which the committee will vote upon it.

The present rate of 15 cents a bushel on oats was increased to 16 cents. The duty for cherries was boosted from 2 cents a pound to 6 cents, with cherries from 4 cents to 6 cents. The duty on lemons was raised from 2 cents a pound to 2 1/2 cents; on onions from 2 cents a pound to 2 1/2 cents. No decision was reached today on the duties applying on tomatoes and peas.

The duty on peanuts in the shell was left at 4 1/4 cents a pound as provided by the house but the duty on shelled peanuts was reduced from 7 cents to 6 cents.

The duty on casine, manufactured from skimmed milk and used in the manufacture of glass paper, was increased from 2 1/2 cents a pound to 3 1/2 cents. This was regarded as a victory for the dairy interests whose plea for an increase was ignored by the house. Users of glass paper had protested the increase.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN No. 47

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"They were going toward the morning. It was a half-moon ago." Tarzan listened no longer to the young ape's tale. Was it possible this prisoner was some woman of his own race in deadly peril? Without another word the ape-man sprang into the trees and fled like a disembodied spirit eastward, in the direction of the forgotten city of Opar.

How long Jane lay in the darkness of the vault beneath the temple in the ancient city of Opar, she did not know. As her strength gradually returned, her captors watched her with increasing interest. At length came a day when they led her from her dungeon into a brilliant courtyard. She saw a stone altar in the center with dark-brown stains upon it.

They bound her ankles and her wrists. A moment later she was lifted and placed across the altar's top. During the grotesque dance of the votaries that followed, she lay frozen in horror. Nor did she require the sight of the thin blade in the hands of the high priestess as it rose slowly above her, to enlighten her further as to her doom.

As the hand began to descend, Jane succumbed to the strain, and swooned. Day and night Tarzan of the Apes raced through the primeval forest toward the ruined city in which he was positive some white woman lay either a prisoner or dead. He thought of that grim altar and increased his speed. Would he be in time to rescue her? He hoped against hope. At least he could be revenged.

Thursday was a busy day at the airport, so far as visitors are concerned, at least. In addition to Captain Frank Hawks, who arrived in his Wash-powered Lockheed to blaze the trail for the Ford Reliability Tour, four other out-of-town planes stopped by.

Two young fliers from Rock Hill, S. C., each in a Waco "10," arrived Thursday afternoon to take their examination for transport pilot licenses. They are W. C. Hicklin and J. L. Phillips, Jr., and they will demonstrate their ability in the air before Supervising Inspector Leo C. Wilson, of the department of commerce. The other two visiting planes during the day were air corps ships, one a Consolidated PT-1, from Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala., piloted by Lieutenant Patrick and Captain Patrick, and the other a Curtiss Hawk from Norfolk, Va., bound for Pensacola, Fla., and piloted by Lieutenant Cornwell. Both planes stopped overnight and will take off early in the morning.

Americus' new county and municipal airport, the great Southern field which was purchased from the government recently, will be dedicated probably next week-end, August 9, 10 and 11, as advised received at Candler field Thursday night. Doug Davis, of T. A. T., announced that the company would send three ships to Southern field for its opening as a municipal airport. Several other planes also are expected to be there.

An aerial salute will be put on as part of the dedication events, including a delayed parachute drop by Bonnie Rowe, stunting and other contests. Doug will have a Fokker Universal 6-passenger cabin monoplane, a Curtiss Robin, sister ship to the new world-famous St. Louis Robin which stayed in the air more than 400 hours, and another plane at Southern field. American people who would like to see their city and section from the air will be given an opportunity to go up with T. A. T. pilots in one of the newest planes to reach Georgia.

Possibility that Southern field will be the site of one of the largest air colleges in America was said Thursday to be excellent. Every need for a big aviation school is found there. Several large companies are negotiating with those in charge of the field for schools. Every day practically is a flying day, with almost no time lost because of weather. This is one of the greatest aids to a flying school. The field itself is exceptionally large and in good condition, the country around it level with open places for emergency landings, large hangars with concrete floors are already up and available and a railroad track runs right to field where there are large warehouses to accommodate all kinds of materials, parts, engines and planes.

Texas Air Transport Flying School at Candler field is expecting some new training planes any day. The new ships will be Fleets, powered with air-cooled 110-horsepower Warner Scarab engines and built exclusively for primary student training purposes. They will be 2-place jobs and of the same type now giving excellent service at T. A. T. schools in Texas.

Atlanta is on the list of the 27 cities along the Atlantic seaboard, in the far south and in the middle west, which are to be visited during the next two months by the General Tire Sky Fleet of eight Aristocrat monoplanes, according to word received from C. S. Riemann, president of the General Airplanes Corporation, manufacturers of the ships. The fleet, which already has visited practically every important municipality in the states of Ohio, Kentucky and Michigan, is engaged in a year's tour of the United States, Canada, Cuba and Mexico, said to be the most extensive ever inaugurated in the history of aviation. Among the southern cities which will be visited are New Orleans, Tampa, Miami, Jacksonville, Birmingham and Savannah.

A peep into the future of aviation as contained in the Air Commerce Bulletin published Thursday by the department of commerce. "And the end is not yet," is the caption of the brief, graphic picture, which says: "Automatic pilots may control the passenger plane in the near future. Diesel-type engines are already here, gas-burning power plants are thought of, and screws, adjustable in flight, will provide the airplane with the equivalent of the speed-change mechanism of the automobile. The private pilot who flies for the fun is now beginning to fly here, there and everywhere and the airplane is rapidly coming within the price range of the average wage-earner."

TALMADGE DELIVERS CONVENTION ADDRESS

Valdosta, Ga., August 1.—(Special.)—Belief that the Georgia department of agriculture "really had done very little for the farmer, but that it is trying to do a real service" was expressed here today by Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, who was principal speaker at the 32d annual meeting of the Georgia Agricultural Society.

Mr. Talmadge declared that vegetable oils admitted duty free had destroyed the market of cottonseed oil and peanuts and that duty free fruit was taking the place of more than 2,000,000 bales of cotton annually. He also declared that the Egyptian cotton, duty free, was preventing Georgia staple cotton with a staple an inch and a quarter in length, from selling for more than ordinary short staple cotton.

He pointed out that farm prosperity could only come to the cotton states when these commodities were made to pay ample duty so that they would not destroy the value of the leading farm products of Georgia. During the afternoon the convention visitors were given an automobile ride in which they were shown outstanding crops of various kinds. The trip ended at Ocean Pond Club, where dinner was served with the chairman of commerce as toastmaster. The session tonight was confined to "Soil Erosion," by Dr. H. H. Bennett, of the bureau of chemistry and soils. The lecture was illustrated.

The sessions will continue through Friday afternoon.

ST. LOUIS THOUSANDS HAIL HERO AVIATORS

St. Louis, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Tens of thousands of St. Louisans today welcomed the two aviators who today rode a tribute to the city's new air heroes, Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien, who today flew the new airplane "St. Louis Robin" to an amazing new endurance record of 17 and one-half days.

The aviators and children lined seven miles of streets to cheer and wave their salutes as the aviators were paraded over a winding route through the city. They were formally congratulated in behalf of St. Louis by Acting Mayor Charles A. Neumann.

The fliers were taken over the route traveled by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh when he was given an ovation two years ago upon his return home as an air hero, conqueror of the Atlantic.

At the city hall, Acting Mayor Neumann presented the fliers and Major C. Ray Wassell and P. C. Chaffee, the latter two the refueling crew of the St. Louis Robin with individual scrolls from Mayor Victor Miller in recognition of their feat.

After a hotel luncheon, O'Brien and Jackson appeared at the Brooklyn-Cardinal baseball game at Sportsman park where they were again acclaimed and received lifetime gold passes to the National League games.

Tomorrow the endurance fliers will fly their St. Louis Robin, equipped with a new Challenger motor, to Chicago.

CHANGE SEEN IN MOVIE BOOTH INSPECTION LAW

Measure Approved Designed To Permit Inspection of "Talkie" Equipment.

Progress of the motion picture industry bids fair to change the city ordinances governing inspection of motion picture booths in Atlanta. Members of the electric lights committee of city council Thursday afternoon approved a measure designed to permit inspectors for sound pictures to inspect equipment. Heretofore only operators and officials were permitted inside booths while projections were in progress as the sound mechanism is intricate and delicate, it was explained by representatives of the producers.

COLORED CHURCH LEADERS MEETING IN COLLEGE PARK

The second day of the conference of the Griffin district of the colored Methodist Episcopal church at College Park was marked by a large attendance. The two main topics discussed were: "What Can Be Done to Influence the Better Prepared Young Men to Enter the Ministry?" and "Temperance as It Relates to Home and Church."

Rev. C. W. Adams presided over the day's conference and Rev. P. L. Inman and Rev. B. F. Barkley delivered the two sermons of the day. Welcome addresses to the conference were delivered by representatives of other churches: A. M. E. church, Baptist church, and Pastor's church of M. E. church.

Among the visitors were: Rev. H. W. B. Wilson, of the American Bible Society, and Rev. J. J. Seabrooks, assistant to the secretary of the board of temperance, Washington, D. C.

LIBRARY LEADERS TO MEET OCT. 21 AT CHAPEL HILL

It was announced Thursday by Miss Beverly Wheatcroft, secretary of the Georgia library commission. The meeting will be held in connection with the convention of the Southern Education conference.

ARMY CAPTAIN TAKES OWN LIFE AT OGLETHORPE

Savannah, Ga., August 1.—(AP)—Word of the death of Captain Roger M. Wilson, of the twenty-second infantry, from a self-inflicted pistol wound at Fort Oglethorpe was received here today by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wilson, who were telegraphed from Chattanooga, Tenn. His parents were unable to assign any reason for his act. The body will probably be brought here for burial.
